TOWN TOPICS' Annual Appeal Seeks Help to Help Others

It Christmas is more than tinsel and gadgetry, it is love and sharing and giving — sometimes beyond one's capacity—to other human beings whose want and need is greater than our own.

For the past quarter century, TOWN TOPICS has made a single Christmas appeal to the heart of Princeton, asking for money that can be translated into love and sharing, money that can ease the want and need from which many Princeton residents suffer.

Food, clothing and shelter can be supplied, in today's world, through the usual channels of welfare or organized charity. The TOWN TOPICS appeal defines "need" more broadly, although the essentials of something to eat, warm clothes to wear and a safe place to live, are never neglected.

The Family Service Agency of Princeton decides, for TOWN TOPICS, the best ways to help. The money you contribute this Christmas will be disbursed throughout the year, so that in the middle of a hot summer day, your gift will help an unhappy child have a wonderful time at camp.

The cases here have been taken by Family Service from the Agency's files, with names and details changed sufficiently to protect the privacy of people involved.

That boy in summer camp might be 10-year-old Johnny whose divorced mother couldn't quite meet the additional expenses of camp for her son. With two teenage sisters and no father, Johnny had almost no chance to spend time with other boys or with men, to learn new hobbies and to sharpen his skill in sports.

Eager to go to camp, Johnny went off happily last summer financed in his new and widened life through TOWN TOPICS funds.

Many boys and girls go to summer day camp on these funds. Working closely with YMCA and YWCA, Family Service sends to summer camp the children who live under such pressures at home that it's a relief for everybody to have them away and happy.

The distraught mother who doesn't have to supervise a restless brood during summer vacation, the grandmother who can manage as head-of-household pretty well during the school year but is at her wit's end when vacation comes—day camp is a blessing to women like these. And think of the pleasure when a kid comes home bursting with happiness at the end of the day!

For another kind of distraught mother, Family Service has used money provided by gifts through TOWN TOPICS to pay a Homemaker. The new mother who has never had a baby and is terrified by the responsibilities of a newborn, or the mother who brings a new baby home to a brood already too large, often suffer from post-partum depression, a well-known medical phenomenon.

A Homemaker in such a home takes care of everything all day until the father returns at supper-time. Her steady helping hand quite probably saves the mother from more severe emotional troubles, and allows her to recover so that she can take care of the family herself.

Mothers who have undergone surgery and cannot afford anyone to take care of the family while they recover have also turned to Family Service and found financial help to pay for a Homemaker.

The most poignant need a family can suffer is illustrated by Kurt, a four-year-old who was brain-injured at birth. The eldest of two children of foreign-born parents living in Princeton, Kurt had been going off to nursery school every day.

But the nursery school he's been attending regretfully told the mother and father that Kurt can no longer come to school because his behavior is so erratic it upsets the other children.

TOWN TOPICS funds were used to place the boy in a special

"New Life for the Center of Princeton"

Is a Look at the Future for $12 Million

A Princeton where there are no parking meters and no on-street parking places at all... where Witherspoon Street is a pedestrian mall free of cars, with fountains playing by sidewalk cafes... where the post office building is a community center for young and old and the Greenholm section a high-density apartment area...

It's "A New Life for the Center of Princeton," the central-business-district report from Princeton Regional Planning Board consultant Charles Agle. Proposals carry a $12 million price tag.

The report was released to the general public this week, although several merchants have already had a chance to examine it, and the members of a CBD citizens committee named by Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley have talked about it.

Copies will be at the public library, and anyone who's interested can also stop at Borough Hall and read a copy. But so far, there are not enough copies for general distribution; later, maybe, if interest is keen enough.

Nothing Final. "The plans are by no means final," Mayor Cawley says. "They provide a useful starting place for discussion."

On December 19, the mayor will meet with neighbors of the CBD to hear their thoughts. Dozens of community organizations will be invited to talk it over, and eventually there may be a town meeting, similar to the ones held last winter.

"Perhaps only five percent of these plans will be implemented over the next few years," Mayor Cawley observed, "but steps should be taken, and related to a long-range plan. Development goes on, you know, regardless."

Keep But Change. Keep the character of the Central Business District, reinforce existing business areas and allow the district to serve the community better—that's the overall objective of the plan.

The center of Princeton should be improved so that it becomes a true Center for community life, the report believes. Witherspoon Street should be improved so that it is a true mall between Nassau and Holfish. Outdoor eating and drinking, should be encouraged not only here, but in front of the Nassau Inn and around the Playhouse, and Witherspoon should have at least two fountains.

As a start, parking could be wiped out, sidewalks widened and planted with trees and shrubs, and traffic reduced to two lanes, perhaps on a paving of cobblestones.

In the Palmer Square area, most of the paving should be removed—again, as a start—and the area re-landscaped as a Village Green.

The post office, is the hole in the doughnut, with its hazardous and ugly rear truck-loading facilities," the report declares. With major postal functions now in West Windsor, service branches could be combined with neighborhood enterprises in the Witherspoon-Wiggins area.

The post office building would then become a community center. Here the teenager and the elderly could gather, art exhibits could be held, and the building altered to provide space for convention dinners, or lecture-lunches.

The Princeton Playhouse, near by, would replace Mc Carter as the town's music and drama center. "Mc Carter," report says flatly, "is an outdated building with bad acoustics, no air-conditioning, practically no dressing rooms, dangerous steps leading to the balcony, it is in a poor state of repair."

If the Playhouse became such a center, it would attract "thousands of people" to the Central Business District who would never go there otherwise. Entertainment, restaurants and evening shopping would reinforce one another and the CBD could become a place of night time gaiety.

One of the new shopping spots would be the re-located University Store. Nobody knows, Mayor Cawley observed, whether the U Store would stimulate or stifle nearby shops, but the report would like to see it moved up from University Place.

A new plaza should be erected on the north side of the Princeton Inn over a parking garage surrounding the Playhouse. Pedestrian walkways would link the three Town Squares: the Witherspoon Mall, the Village Green and the Playhouse Plaza.

Parking and traffic are perhaps the most agonizing daily problem for Princeton and the report has radical recommendations.

- Parallel on street parking should be abandoned "completely."

- Six parking garages should be built, accommodating 2,300 cars. Suggested areas are Chambers Street South, Playhouse West, Playhouse East, the Library, Spring Street West and Lincoln Court (off Tulane).

- Parking garages would be three decks, one deck below ground, one at ground level, one above.

- No all-day parking should be allowed. At least 1,000 spaces should be provided on "hot" around the fringes with shuttle buses to the center of town.

- Property owners should no longer be required to provide off street parking.

- Parking meter should be eliminated. In its place, a ticket "pitter" entry and pay booth exit would take their place. "And the police force could concentrate on its proper mission of public safety in lieu of acting as parking attendants for private business at such expense."

- Parking of cars and buses on the street should be eliminated so that cars could free up space for them to find parking space.

- Parking should be re-named together from Nassau Street. It could then be re-named to a width of 100 feet, on the north side.

- Truck loading must be done in rear of building or in designated truck loading area. The area between Witherspoon and Holfish streets and the area between Holfish and the next street.

In addition to changing the face of Princeton's Center in this manner, the report would shelter the business district from through traffic, close off certain streets into dead ends and open others through new connections.

Incidentally, the report suggests connecting Bayard Lane to Alexander, a connection voted off the official Borough map by the planning board the day the report was released.

Where to Live? Turning to housing, another Princeton vexation, the report proposes high density apartments for the 7.66 acre Greenholm tract and the 1.47-acre back yard of the adjoining Palmer property.

Together, they make 9.13 acres which are, the report believes no longer appropriate for large, single-family houses but ideal for compact development. The density suggested is 20 units per acre.

The report observes the 150 apartments the University has said it will build on the Playhouse block. (Housing on top of parking garages, incidentally, is very expensive). The report never refers to a proposal by Princeton Community Housing, Inc., to build middle-income apartments on the library's parking lot.

Mayor Cawley said this week that the Borough will talk with PCI to find out its present plans.

When? How? How does all this get translated into reality?

"That is an unanswered question," said Mayor Cawley this week.

"Parking is the chief problem facing the Borough itself," he explained, "We must ask hard questions about economics. We can't ask the taxpayers to support parking garages unless they get a sure return somewhere else. Maybe, by increasing business activity, parking garages would increase rates. And we would hope for co-operation from merchants, along Park and Shop lines."

Also, the mayor and the town must consider providing a climate for University development and at the same time, a climate in which the owner of a small business can also grow and develop.

And the report puts it this way, "The problem confronting Princeton residents is to provide the superlative central community life which Princeton must have."

school, after Family Service case workers had found the right place for a child with Kurt's particular disability

Family Kept Together Emotional illness has tormented the oldest daughter in the Smith family for several years. The mother, who has two young sons as well, went to Family Service for help because the mental illness was only the latest of several crises which had not only damaged the family, but depleted Mrs. Smith's slender financial resources.

If she could keep the family together, the mother reasoned, it would help the daughter regain emotional well-being. The mother had started training for a job, but hadn't yet finished her course. She was renting out a room in her house, but still could not make ends meet. She was not eligible for welfare, but had to have money to tide her over a few weeks until she had finished her course and was making a salary. TOWN TOPICS funds sustained this family until the mother began to earn enough to hold it together, and provide the stable home the daughter needed.

Enough to help us bridge the gap this kind of urgent temporary help can give a family new strength to begin all over again.

Fire destroyed not only the home but all the clothing, furniture, food and money the Harpers had. The father had a job, but he and his wife and two young children needed temporary financial aid — to say nothing of used furniture to help them get back on their feet. TOWN TOPICS funds were allotted by Family Service to help out.

Broken Family Helped. In another family, a broken family this time, a new divorce meant not only anguish but dollar troubles besides. Mrs. Locust took her three young

Legal Block Placed on Public Housing

Three residents of the Ewing-Mt. Lucas area have obtained from Superior Court a temporary restraining order against the public housing project planned for Ewing Mt. Lucas State Road. The suit, filed Tuesday against the Township Zoning Board, Township Committee and Benedict Yedlin, Inc. as agent for the Housing Authority, prohibits the Zoning Board from hearing the Authority's request for bulk variances. That hearing was scheduled for Thursday, December 21.

The order also keeps Township Committee from holding a hearing on the Zoning Board's favorable recommendation for granting a use variance.

The plaintiffs are James L. Green, 688 Ewing; William Brower, 628 Ewing and James Pietraforno, 233 Mt. Lucas. They are represented by Philip D. Papier Jr., a Trenton attorney.

Mr. Papier said he based his case on the state law that allows 95 days between the filing of an application and a decision by the Zoning Board. If the decision isn't reached within that time, Mr. Papier said, the law says the applicant — Mr. Yedlin — should automatically get an adverse decision.

The application was filed July 7, 1972, and Mr. Papier says the 95 days expired October 10. The Zoning Board's favorable recommendation on a use variance was rendered November 9.

Judge Frank J. Kingfield of Superior Court, scheduled a hearing on the restraining order for December 22. Lawyers for the Zoning Board (Ivan Rash), Township Committee (Gordon Griffin) or Mr. Yedlin (Thomas C. Jamieson Jr.) can, on two days' notice, ask the court to modify or dissolve the restraining order.

children to Family Service because she was worried about their adjustment to the divorce. She wasn't adjusting any too well herself, and in addition, she had just lost her job. The children were angry and resentful toward their mother, homesick for their absent father. Mrs. Locust was so depressed she found the simplest household chores almost impossible to do. She had savings, yes, but she was afraid they would all be gone before she could get a settlement from her husband and a new job. Here again, TOWN TOPICS funds meant a strong, helping hand to take away at least one of this mother's worries.

THIS APPEAL IS MADE ONLY IN TOWN TOPICS. THERE WILL BE NO OTHER SOLICITATION OF ANY KIND. NO ONE BUT YOU WILL EVER KNOW WHETHER OR NOT YOU PASS IT BY.

Checks should be made payable to The Town Topics Christmas Fund and mailed to Town Topics, P.O. Box 664, Princeton, New Jersey 08540. Every penny contributed goes to help the ones for whom we make this 26th Annual Christmas Appeal.

Meat and Poultry "See-Through" Packaging to Be Required

Omitting the fish course, Township Committee served up its new clear-packaging ordinance Monday night and put it on the menu for public hearing December 18.

The ordinance requires stores to sell pre-packaged meat and poultry, fresh or frozen, in packages that reveal the product on both sides; no hiding the skimpy side against an opaque bottom. It also prohibits the kind of layering that conceals less desirable pork chops.

Committee was about to add "fish" to meat and poultry for a kind of all-purpose stew, but Committee member Jay Bleiman wasn't sure.

A good sturdy steak, held together by that T-bone, was perhaps different from a fish, which tended even when very dead, to go flipping around in a package.

So fish was crossed off, temporarily. It may be included however, after the public hearing.

Another change was urged upon Committee by representatives of Diamond International, who were pushing their own packaging. The vice-president of the firm's molded fibre division, after treating Committee to a history of pre-packaging from early fibre through styrofoam to clear styrene, displayed and explained his firm's own grid package.

Diamond International would like the packaging description in the ordinance changed from "colorless and transparent on all sides" to "70 percent of the bottom visible, uniformly distributed." This would take care of the grid package, which is like a tray, and not transparent on the sides.

The Diamond spokesman

passed around samples—some complete with real T-bone—showing how the tray, made of ground wood fibre, suspends the steak away from the protective film and allows circulation of air. The tray also absorbs the blood that often puddles at the bottom of a transparent package and keeps the housewife from seeing the bottom, anyway, the spokesman claimed.

"We don't want to give Diamond a hold on the market," warned Mayor John D. Wallace, after listening, and Mr. Bleiman said he wanted any amendments to be broad enough so they wouldn't be wholly related to Diamond's design.

No supermarkets have commented on the proposed ordinance. Administrator Joseph R. Nini said, in reply to a query from the mayor.

Unsafe at Any Speed "Dangerous" is probably the only word for Route 206 — "State Road" — commented Mr. Bleiman. Using an overlay map, he described to Committee his voyages along the route with Traffic Officer Sgt. Anthony Nini.

The area from the Mary Watts store to Township Hall is particularly hazardous, he pointed out. Shoulders are eroding and the whole stretch is plagued with bad drainage. With winter coming, this means long and dangerous stretches of ice, he warned.

The road belongs to New Jersey and the Township is powerless to do any repair or construction work. Mr. Bleiman said he had examined a sheaf of letters from the state, responding to repeated pleas by Sgt. Nini for work on the road.

"The state just sends these letters from one bureau to another within the Department of Transportation," Mr. Bleiman reported.

However, James Schuyler, the Regional Engineer in charge of this area — "we didn't even know there WAS a Regional Engineer!" — has promised action, Mr. Bleiman announced.

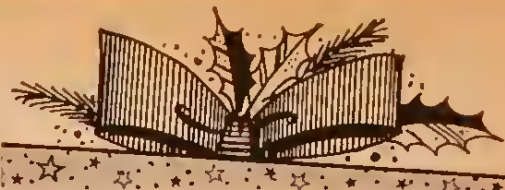

The Township would like the cracked, eroded shoulders repaired so they will be safer, and the drainage corrected if possible. Mr. Bleiman and Sgt. Nini reported an underground spring directly under the roadbed in the Ewing area, and commented on the difficulty of controlling such a phenomenon. State workmen had poured asphalt into the spring to try and stop it up, but without success, Sgt. Nini said.

Warning signs for both north and south-bound motorists, pointing to bad conditions ahead and the possibility of bad skids in wet, freezing weather, will be approved by the state, Mr. Bleiman said he had this assurance from Mr. Schuyler. Such signs cannot be installed by a municipality.

Also, Mr. Schuyler has held out some hope for a non-skid re-surfacing of the Edgerstone-State Road intersection which also has drainage troubles.

Progress on New Road. Committee passed condemnation

182-Acre Ettl Form Up for Sale

The Alexander Ettl farm on Rosedale Road is up for sale and neighbors have been invited to a private gathering this Friday evening at the Nassau Inn to hear it.

In a letter mailed to neighbors of the 182-acre farm, Thomas A. Mitchell, 101 Magnolia Lane, identifying himself as Mr. Ettl's "selling agent," says the meeting has been planned to acquaint neighbors with the announcement of sale, the selling method to be used, and future relationships that will result from the property sale.

The letter adds that Mr. Ettl has been discussing sale of his farm with William H. Sword, Rosedale Road, and that Mr. Sword has offered to attend Friday's meeting. There is no indication of Mr.

Sword's role, but speculation is that he may have developed the method of sale Mr. Ettl would like to use.

Mr. Mitchell refers to the "size, social implication and environmental considerations" of the Ettl parcel. It is in the Township's two-acre zone. Most of the land is open field, although there are wooded strips along Stony Brook.

With the Regional Planning Board's housing report due in the near future, it is thought that the Ettl property might be proposed as the site of garden apartments, once such structures are permitted in the Township.

Mr. Ettl has owned the land since the 1950s. It was Fred Schluter, father of State Senator William Schluter

FARM LAND? NO
In Tax Decision Princeton Township has won a tax victory worth about $29,000.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court, reversing a ruling by the New Jersey State Board of Tax Appeals, has declared that 81 acres of Princeton Research Lands at Mt.
Lucas and Poor Farm Roads are not eligible to be taxed at the low farm lands rate.

The decision involves $21,000 in taxes for 1969, 1970 and 1971 and would have meant a loss of about $9,000 for this year for the Township, according to the municipality's tax office.

W. Bryer Thompson, whose firm Princeton Research Lands is, took his case to the state board of tax appeals after the Mercer County tax board upheld the Township's non-farm assessment.

In the next round, the state reversed the county and ruled for Mr. Thompson. Now, the Township is the winner as a result of the Superior Court decision. Superior Court found no evidence that the land produces $500 per acre in gross sales from farm use, as required by statute.

Mr. Thompson claims that about 15 acres is planted in corn each year, while the rest is in timber. One year, when no corn was planted, he says, his firm planned on "timbering" the woods in selective cutting of trees. A forester from Rutgers told the court the land had $5,000 worth of timber, and Mr. Thompson says he figured that over a ten-year period, he met the $500 per-acre requirement.

However, since he had only the value of the trees and not actual sales of timber, he says, he was in a weak position.

Road, was thrown from the auto driven by Frank Rossi, 20, the defendant, in June of 1970 after the car struck a pole, according to her attorney, Gerald R. Stockman.

The award is the largest personal injury damages to be granted in Mercer County and among the ten largest awarded in the state, Mr. Stockman said. The jury deliberated from 4 p.m. until 10:45 p.m.—almost seven hours—before reaching a decision. The case was heard by Judge Samuel D. Lenox, Jr.

Miss Kzeslowski was 17 at the time of the accident and had just graduated from Princeton High School. She and Mr. Rossi, son of Frank Rossi Sr., were returning home from a party. The girl spent three months in a coma at Princeton Medical Center and will probably never completely recover from the head injuries she suffered, according to Mr. Stockman.

He noted that she has serious problems in walking, has impaired speech and hand coordination, cannot drive a car, has impaired judgment, and "in our opinion is not self-sustainable." He added that she will probably require physical and emotional treatment throughout her life.

Dr. Elliot Mancall, chief of the neurology department at Hahnemann Hospital and Medical College, Philadelphia, testified that Miss Kzeslowski had sustained damage in three parts of the brain, her attorney said.

In June, a bill for about $350,000 of the award, he added, with another $50,000 in interest. He expects payment will be held up by an appeal already filed contesting liability in the accident.

Miss Kzeslowski is the oldest of three children. Her father is a liquor salesman, he said.

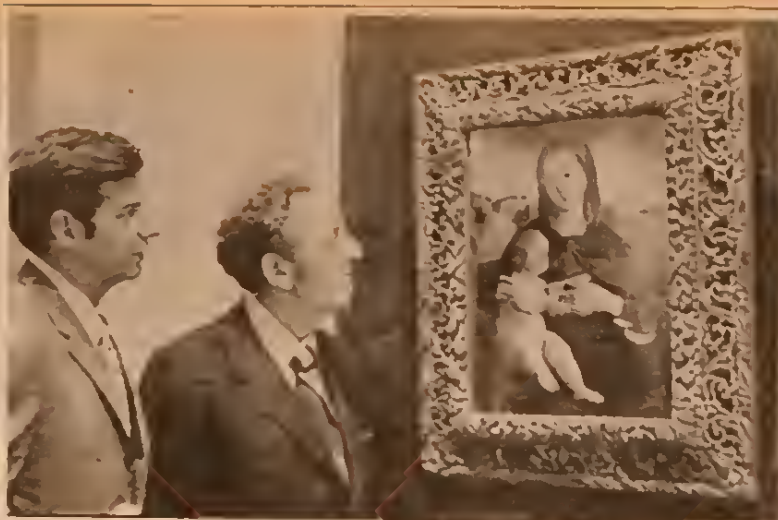

The highest previous personal injury award in the county was for $212,000 in a death case brought against Public Service Electric & Gas Co. Mr. Stockman commented. The record for the state was made several years ago when $12 million was awarded from a board of education to a student who fell off a trampoline and became permanently paralyzed. The award was later reduced, he believes.

STUDENT IS ASSAULTED

At Wilcox Hall Dance. A 21-year-old student employed at Wilcox Hall on the university campus was assaulted Friday night a few minutes before midnight, a police spokesman said.

A crowd of about 100 gathered to see the victim, a 17-year-old male, who had been beaten by a group of about 10 men. The victim was taken to the hospital and is expected to be released within a few days.

He was treated at the Princeton Medical Center and is expected to be released within a few days.

that the suspect has been identified and police are in the process of completing their investigation and making an arrest.

Sgt. John Bell, Ptl. Kerry Kink, Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt responded to the original call for aid from the Princeton University Security Department.

WOMAN IS MUGGED

While Riding Bicycle. A case of mugging took place last week when a young 18-year-old woman was mugged while riding her bicycle on Witherspoon Street near Maple Terrace.

According to police, a young adult male charging across Witherspoon, knocked the rider off her bike and snatched her purse containing about $100. The victim, who fell to the roadway, sustained a broken left rib which, police said, will require surgery.

A passing motorist stopped and telephoned police, who located the victim in the nearby Princeton Medical Center dispensary. Chief Michael Carnevale said that police have been supplied with a description of the attacker and Del. Timothy Huzzing is continuing the investigation. The attack took place at 9:21 p.m.

Purse-Snatching. Thursday evening at 8:28, an elderly Township resident had her purse snatched as she was leaving a Witherpoon Street restaurant. She suffered minor bruises.

Police said that two teenage boys grabbed the victim's purse containing $50 and then ran north on Witherpoon. She was alone at the time, police said.

PENNINGTON BOY DIES
From Accident Injuries. Four-year old Michael J. Spelman Jr., 31 Mine Road, Pennington, died Saturday morning in Princeton Medical Center from injuries he received Friday afternoon in a car accident.

Hopewell Township State Police report that young Michael was a passenger in a car driven by his mother, Mrs. Beverly Spelman, 31 The two were riding on Crusher Road about a half mile from Spur Route 518 when their Volkswagen station wagon veered off the narrow, twisting road and struck a tree.

Police said that Mrs. Spelman was not speeding. Michael sustained internal injuries and was taken to the Medical Center.

Pedestrian Struck A Belle Mead resident, Mrs. Dorothy Crawford, 58, of Griggstown Road, suffered contusions and a sprain of the back, after she was struck Friday while crossing Nassau Street. The driver continued on without stopping.

Mrs. Crawford told P.D. Joseph Wilhelm, "I was almost across when I was struck. The only thing I saw were headlights."

Her husband, Edward, who was waiting on the opposite side of the street, told police that he saw a small, green foreign car strike his wife but was unable to get its license number. The mishap took place at 6 p.m. near the intersection of N. Tulane Street.

Pickup Truck Totaled An icy spot on treacherous Route 206 claimed another victim early Thursday morning when a 1973 pickup truck skidded out of control, hit a pole and flipped over on its roof. Damage to the truck was total, police said.

A passenger in the truck Anna Reese, 21, of Raritan was admitted to the Medical Center, suffering from a compound fracture of her left leg, a fractured shoulder bone and lacerations. The driver, Niels R. Ellis, 41, of Trenton, received contusions and abrasions of both legs and lacerations.

Mr. Ellis told police that his truck swerved across the center line when it hit an icy spot half a mile south of Arcton Road. "I lost control. I saw a large truck coming and I had no other choice but to leave the roadway."

Lawrenceville Is Spared

The State has no plans to widen Route 206 through the village of Lawrenceville officials of the Department of Transportation have told Lawrence Township Committee.

The route will be widened, however, from the Route 195 interchange south to Darrah Lane, and a public hearing on this will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Township Hall.

The state plans four 11-foot wide lanes. This would make that portion of Route 206 slightly narrower than the usual four-lane highway. The state's plan would relieve traffic congestion caused by vehicles making left hands turns off Route 206.

TEN ARE FINED
In Borough Court. Ten Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough court by Judge Theodore T. Tama Jr.

Two had their licenses suspended. Marjio Vandam, 26, Nassau Inn, lost his for 45 days and was fined $30 for careless driving. Joseph Mast, 19, Bayberry Road, surrendered his license for 15 days and was fined $12 for a stop sign infraction that triggered a three-car accident. David B. Kelso, 20, Cloister Inn, paid $30 for reckless driving.

Jean S. Turner, 56, 564 Mercer Street, and Alhina Mangone, 50, 40 Jefferson Road paid $30 and $15 for speeding.

Others: Edward Palulis, $19 Ewing Street, $15, stop sign; Patrick M. Fly, 20, 332 Henry Hall, Princeton University, $15, U-turn; Joseph P. Hayes, 33, 36 Harris Road, $12 red light; Albert E. Simpson, 71, 13 Maclean Street, $15, failure to keep right; and Nancy B. Ellis, 36, Journey's End Lane, $15, exiting from a private drive without due caution.

SEX FILM DROPPED
By Prince Theatre. The X-rated "Teenage Fantasies" was cancelled Tuesday by Prince Theatre although it had been scheduled for another week's run.

Mayor Melvin Firman of West Windsor secured the change after talking with Willard Matthews, vice president of Budco Co., booking agent for the theatre. The township committee has been searching for ways to prevent the showing of sex films. "They're trying to turn West Windsor into the porno center of Central Jersey," Stefan Guzy told fellow committee members.

Mayor Firman was reportedly assured by Mr. Matthews that it will be "a long time, if ever, until we bring in another film like that." He said that it is difficult to find any other movies to book.

Substituted this week is a double feature: "What's Up, Doc?" rated G, and "Play It Again, Sam," rated PG.

The Prince has previously played X-rated "Throat," drawing comment from The New York Times concerning "Princeton" films. "Teenage Fantasies" was billed, "If 'Throat' made you tingle... this will make you twitch!"

A Few C-Notes Would Help High School Choir

"We're thrilled! Even the kids who aren't going are excited!"

The thrill is understandable. The 83-voice Princeton High School Choir has been invited—"we didn't even ask! They came to us!"—to sing this summer in the Vienna, Budapest, Prague Festival of Three Cities. The sponsor is the National Educational Scholarship Foundation of Northbrook, Illinois.

Needed: $60,000 from the Princeton community, generous angels, parents. Contributions are tax-deductible. One sagacious high school staff member suggests a contribution now, to count on your 1972 income-tax, and another one after January 1 which you can use as a 1973 deduction.

A steering group of choir parents will be formed shortly. It will solicit funds and arrange work projects, leaving Choir Director William Trego free to direct the choir.

Bring Your Dough. Bake sales; maybe a raffle if it's lawful; a choir concert here in Princeton, with patrons and advertisements sold for a program; odd-jobs taken on by choir members (any leaves that need raking?)...all these will provide money for the common pool.

"What we really need," observed Mr. Trego, looking at the staff, "is a C note!"

The choir director talked with the press Monday, joined by Mrs. Nancianne Parrella, accompanist, and three members of the choir—Robert Peskin, who is choir president, Bernadine Hines, vice-president, and Nancy Rosenthal who described herself as "just a member of the choir."

$$$ The cost of the trip, exclusive of air-fare, is $400 per singer for 12 days in Europe. This includes everything. It encompasses bilingual guides for sight-seeing buses, the buses and the drivers. It pays for managers who hire concert halls and arrange concerts and line up the judges. It allows for medical care and even for tips. Besides, of course, room and board.

Air fare will probably be $230, by charter flight. The dollar amount is approximate, Mr. Trego said, because the choir is still shopping for the best charter bargain. The $60,000 embraces also a $3,000 contingency fund, "in case the second tenor from the left gets appendicitis."

Contributions have already begun to come in. Nadia Koutzen, violinist and a choir parent, and Shirley Batchelor, pianist and choir parent, have both volunteered to give a benefit concert. A local business has donated a $1,000 prize, assuming the raffle is legal. One parent has offered to run a rummage sale.

A $40-per-head registration payment must be made now to the Foundation. Subsequent payments of $150 per head each, must be made February 1 and April 1 with a final $100 per head payment due May 15.

The choir is scheduled to leave June 28, spend six days in Vienna, three days each in Budapest and Prague, and leave for home July 13. Six chaperons will go along.

The Princeton Regional School Board has decided on March 28 as the date for a final review. Do we have enough money to go ahead? Can we continue our commitment?

If the board examines the budget sheet and thinks it's a good investment, money will be returned to donors, except to people who bought at a bazaar sale. But it's possible that not all the money will be refunded if it's not done at a bazaar sale.

Let's Go! Princeton High School Choir has been invited to sing in the Vienna, Budapest, Prague Festival of Three Cities. The sponsor is the National Educational Scholarship Foundation of Northbrook, Illinois. The choir is scheduled to leave June 28, spend six days in Vienna, three days each in Budapest and Prague, and leave for home July 13. Six chaperons will go along.

Choir to Sing Abroad

Princeton High's choir has been invited to sing next summer in the Festival of Three Cities, to be held in Vienna, Budapest and Prague.

The cost of the trip, $57,000, will be financed by fund-raising projects to be undertaken by singers and their parents, and perhaps by funds which will be pooled so that less affluent parents will not be embarrassed and nobody will know how much who paid.

The school board will buy insurance for the student singers. Final approval will come March 28 after the board and the choir find out whether they've been able to raise enough money.

and 1964, when Thomas Hilbish was director, it traveled to Europe to the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy.

The current adventure began with a telegram to Mr. Trego inviting him to submit tapes for audition purposes. About 100 high school choirs in the United States responded to the invitation, and Princeton's choir was one of the 16 chosen.

Not only that, it was the best choir in the whole group, which means the best high school choir in the country. That was the verdict of Dr. Lara Hoggard, professor of choir at the University of North Carolina and leader of the Festival.

Three Years' Work. "We wanted to show the overall work of the choir, so we sent performance tapes for three years," Mr. Trego explained. "These were not specifically recorded, you understand; they were simply taped at concerts."

From three years ago, he sent the third part of Handel's "Messiah," done with the Princeton Chamber Orchestra under Nicholas Harsanyi's baton. From two years ago, an "a cappella" performance, in German, of the Bach motet, "Jesu, Meine Freude" and from last year, a portion of the Durufle Requiem, conducted by the composer.

In Europe, Princeton's young singers will join with singers representing about 16 other countries in Europe, the Far East and the Near East in three "Festival" Choirs.

One choir will perform the Brahms Requiem—the Prince

HOLIDAY SIGHTS

And A Memorable Christmas. There's an in-gathering of all the Yuletide forces — choirs rehearsing all over town, the shops sparkling, the mysterious packages, the party lists, and the Borough about to trim its elegant tree.

There will be a feast of music this year — from Westminster Choir College, Columbus Boychoir and Trinity, as well as debuts of two newcomers; the choir from the Training School for Boys who will give their first public concert this week at Princeton Nursing Home under the beaming eyes of the Soroptimists; and the Trinity Choral Society's first performance on the 17th

The middle school at Princeton Day holds its annual competition for Bible readers for the Candlelight program, smaller fry learn new carols while their mothers hem angel robes. News casts of hundreds rehearse for nativity tableaux and pageants in the churches and private schools and for the Ballet Society's Christmas glamor show. At St. Paul's, high spirited young singers are readying what is annually one of the most exuberant, delightful Christmas programs.

It's a time to enjoy to the fullest. For the benefit of browsers and listmakers, we give here our most recent gleanings from the Princeton and nearby shops, to wit:

OTHER PAPERS will run your classified ads for half price, or for nothing if they do not sell in TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

Be Kind to Your Four-Footed Friends

Some fervent thoughts from Rosedale Mills, Route 31 and West Delaware Avenue, Pennington, who're concerned about the birds, too.

Green and red halters with matching leals for your favored nag $5.50 and $3.75; matching quilted horse blankets (from $13); shipping boots in red "miracle" fleece, and lightweight Navajo blankets (nice enough for throw rugs), 30x60, from $2.75.

"Change-A-Bit" kits for a rider to assemble; everything for a horse's interior and exterior, vitamins to currying tools and the famous "cactus cloth" ($2.98). Proper feeds for animals from horse to hamster and sizes in between, also good little booklets on care.

Bird feeders and houses ($1.98 to $29.95 — a palace), electric bird baths that keep the water from freezing, equipped with thermostat $29.95 and the "Water Warmer" at $11.50.

A Dash Of Glamour

There's a melange of old sterling and newer pieces at The Silver Shop in Palmer Square. The adjunct china includes a platter from set belonging to the first colonial governor of Vermont. Green-tinted, with graceful themes from nature, hand-painted in rose, gold and a deeper green.

The browser will find a broad range of prices, starting with sterling and crystal coaster ashtrays ($3), silver cheese knives ($7) and reproduction candlestick holders ($5.50). The shop has old flatware, knives, forks and spoons by Kirk, Tiffany, Gorham and others to round out a hostess's supply.

For drama, a 125 year old ruby glass compute with a gold overlay in grapes and leaves design; the Victorian plated silver basket with engraved profiles of four men circled in laurel wreaths; the dozen 1890 majolica plates in deep green with an overlapping leaf design; or the dozen plates of Dresden china, also dating to about 1890, handpainted in an airy, intricate array of flowers on a white background.

From Damascus 10 antique wine basins, handwrought in brass with lettering on the side of some, animal reliefs on others, and an oriental head on the bottom of one. (About 1880; $8 each). Other interesting items include several silver tea and coffee sets made in the early 1900's from much older English patterns. Among them a six piece set by Thomas Bradbury & Son of Sheffield.

There's a good selection of candlesticks, serving pieces and children's silver. If you're looking for a large brass tray the Silver Shop has one from Persia, a handsome, hand wrought piece in a soft light tone with an elaborate repetitive design engraved on it ($33).

The collection of plush animals is hard to resist because there is a basic humor to all: from the mellow tiger sitting with his legs splayed ($13.50) to the three bears, Papa, Momma and Baby, suitably sized and dressed ($6.50 the set). Another small bear is musical ($5); and see the fascinating yellow donkey, sporting a pointed green straw hat mashed over his ears; over his shoulder is a rod, dangling a carrot (large size, $12.50).

And where, but at Stone's, would you find a handsome blue poodle with white fur moustache — and a zipper in its back where you tuck in pajamas ($6).

books — Van Gogh by butter flies ($1); mobiles, such as the shepherd with his collie and sheep, and a new moon; jigsaw characters including a pig on a rocker and a heart that is a lady.

Felt hand-puppets that are different, and do-it-things, attractively boxed. Don't miss the Moonwinders and Bull-roarers from Appalachia or the "Gosse Cook Book," written for a little busybody who pig on a rocker and a chair anyway.

Sportin' Life

There are nylon jackets as smooth as a downhill run at Center Sports in Princeton Shopping Center. A lot of action games for rainy days indoors; accessories for golfers and duffers; and racquets and paddles for every game that uses such.

Skis start with the International Nineleens ($37.95), and also for snowboys and bunnies. Adirondack bobsleds; Pelixable Flyers; pure silk undersocks to wear under heavy socks ($2.95); the U.S. ski team-endorsed "Mojave" pure wool undersocks; a famous "Wig-wam" heavy socks for skating or gym; and quite a batch of caps, mittens, scarves and gloves — not to mention the famous black and orange Tiger streamer scarf. And ski boots.

For those who know their brands, Center Sports has the fine quality Hyde Skates, and the Bobby Orr's (also sells hats to protect the blades); the famous "Sherwood" ice hockey sticks; and both Converse and Puma basketball sneakers.

In game four (or more) players' soccer in a box with team figures on sticks set on a stand about table height, also a tabletop version of hockey with realistic figures racing up and down slots. Sheepskin boxing gloves for Junior, Hank Aaron-endorsed "Pitch Back" ($4.95); bocce, space ball; official archery targets; and more (Hours 9 to 9 — except Saturday evening — starting December 11).

Tiger Auto on Witherspoon street is bulging with bikes. Ten-speed Raleigh Record ($96.95); 3-speed Raleigh ($40.95); the Sprite '27, and Calummas, also small fry, two and three-wheelers. Tiger gives it bikes, a year's guarantee including free service and check-up.

There's the new Snow bob, a great combination of bike and ski, with runners fore and aft. Tubular steel frame ($89.95). Also for downhill fun: roll-up toboggans, made of tough, light weight vinyl ($2.95) — a woman from Massachusetts just bought four; the "SPV," which is a tablelike sled toboggan, made of heavy polyethylene and equipped with a tubular steel hand brake and deep, indented runners. It goes where other sleds can't get started ($16.22 and $22.47, depending on size).

Tiger Auto has Adirondack toboggans up to eight feet long, lots of sleds, hikers' packs, hot seats for the duckblind or Palmer Stadium ($2.50); caps in lumberjack plaids of pure wool ($1.95); and fishers' trout mits to standard to the unit size "gyrodisc" (79 cents).

We saw Canadian Flyer and Gold Crown ice skates, basketball equipment; rifle cases, fishing rods, with some on a special sale; knitted face masks in navy blue rib stitch, knitted headbands, ear muffs, and thermal socks in good supply (Hour 9 to 9, beginning Friday).

Coming from Off the Beat

Candlesticks, really antique stools from a New England textile mill; four sizes, in wood with pewter-topped ends. The oldest ones date back about 140 years ($2 and $3.50) at Eye for Art, Spring Street.

Dunhill's new snuff in small bottles; eight versions from "menthus" to 18th Century "French carotte," together with a booklet on varieties, use and historical bits including mention of "Snuffy Charlotte," wife of George III. At Skirm's Smoke Shop, Palmer Square, and John David Ltd, Montgomery Shopping Center.

Old, old Christmas cards, relics of a less complicated era one of kind including some rarities by Tuck ($5), an antique waffle iron with grape design in relief inside the lids; a similar one in a Philadelphia museum, both at Country Antiques, Nassau Street.

Sprucing Up

S do g into Home Decor in Princeton Shopping Center, we learned that the last call to have custom draperies made for Christmas delivery is this Friday.

Dacron quilts for cozy warmth include a blue jeans type with stars and stripes in nautical shapes, planned for a bunk bed set up; and feminine white comforters in a printed pattern of nasturtiums and navy dots; and also in such solid colors as gold, lime pink ($17.98).

Home Decor has something special for the hockey fan to sleep on sheets and pillow cases in National Hockey League designs ($6.49 and $2.49). There's a matching sleeping bag, too, to encourage the dreams of the budding star ($25.98). For older sleepers, Bates' "Queen Elizabeth" electric blankets with a full four year guarantee ($39 to $70).

Among the pillow, the orange and black football, a neck rest covered in corduroy ($2.98) which preserves a hard floor cushion in tasseled crushed velvet or in zebra stripes; and excellent bed-rests.

Finger tip towels bearing wreaths, or Santa or candy cane designs come in white and in a new bright green ($2.25). See the quilt-topped Detecto bathroom scales ($12.98), and other versions with astro turf top or bold black and white stripes.

For nature lovers on the gift list, zero in on Obal Garden Market, lower Alexander Road, where we were enchanted to see a miniature rose, Shooting Star, in bloom. Give a growing mini rose to brighten the winter days ($1.99; red, light pink or yellow blooms).

Other pleasant ideas at Obal's: hyacinth bulbs and pretty glass containers ($2); poinsettias — choose white, pink or red flowers ($3.50 to $7.50); handmade wreaths of pinecones, tied with red velvet bows ($11.95 to $19.95); and electric blankets with a full

the window-sill size in gourmet herb gardens ($4.50).

Thirty-one different types of bird feeders, if you take time to count. Among them an unusual spring action that presses down over the food supply
when heavy birds or squirrels try to feed ($11.95).

At Regent Floor Covering in Pennington, browse the tiles available — some of them
great for table tops, as well as for walls and floors. ($2.10).
We liked the tiles with the palazzo look, in greens, blues, beige, deep, dark blue. There are flower tiles, too, for kitchen, and others marked with roasting timetable or cooking measurements.

Regent Floor has a huge album of go-together ideas to help in room decorating. We found it completely fascinating. Pages and pages based on your color choice.

There's also the Armstrong
"Fancy Free" approach, whereby you select cushioned vinyl for the floor (six-foot rolls); a matching cotton fabric and a matching wallpaper to install yourself. The floor covering has a crinkle finish that eliminates the need to wax it. And see also the great, no-waxing Solarian, a glossy vinyl in marble or pebble patterns, as well as tile and chip styles.

Holiday Dressing

Party clothes at Piccadilly, 200 Nassau near Moore Street, are long and casual, for the most part. A velveteen jumper in Aspen green; good tartans to team with velveteen blazers in solid colors; a front-pleated wool in Christmas red; an Aline in royal blue with brief, green wool fringe around the
hem. (long skirts about $30).

Easy, relaxed tops in multiple stripes or in a rainbow of solid colors — choose from scoop necks in rib stitch, turtle-necks in boucle, rib knit, or plain knit and tailored crepes
— all nicely cut to really fit.
Washable and no-iron.

New dresses in street
lengths feature all-season prints, such as the Copenhagen blue with white-and-pale green touches, or another with a navy background for hot pink flowers. Packable. We found short kilts in marvelous plaid to nest; a reversible wraparound combining navy and green; housecoats in bright quilts, and nice pullovers in heathered weaves. (Hours 10 to 5:30).

Second Look at 20 Nassau has a great collection of jump suits — soft, plain one-pieces with great glamour. A sleeveless design in navy blue has white frogs used vertically around the waist and repeated at the neck closing. Another navy has its deep V neckline outlined in white sash-like braid, which appears again at the outer edges of the wide belt and again at the wrist of the long sleeve ($50).

The long jumper in Christmas red has a to-the-knee front slit and a matching blazer with a three-button sleeve ($56). For evening, a long, cleverly pleated knit skirt in black attached to a brief white top ($55).

Second Look has sexy velveteen skirts, brass-buttoned along the front slit ($18); blazers or jackets in interesting tartan, glen plaid, or houndtooth check. The sweaters have a dash all their own; checkerboard, flecks and solids, to be topped off, perhaps, with knit hat in a slanting puff stitch of Aram-type yarn.

Up-to-You and The Reynolds
Shop are about side by side on Delaware Avenue in Pennington, and well worth a mother-daughter trip for holiday clothes.

Up-to-You is for cool, un-faded youth, with its white an-

For a Bake After You Shake

Why listen to all the talk about having to start getting into shape? Begin a home health club at Forer's Pharmacy, 169 Witherspoon Street with any or all of the following:
An exercycle, a massage belt or a treadmill jogger (no fumes from passing cars). Maybe a belt vibrator for the lumpy places or a water massage to relax with About $45 and up for the exercycle, or have your own sauna bath $200 for a bake after you shake.

Scarf and hat sets, made in unusual color combinations: the velvet jackets in black or cranberry that have the new gathered top sleeve, and a fine collection of stocking stuffer such as the very individual enamel pins (Up-to You sizes, are sizes 5 and 6 to 13 and 11)

The Reynolds Shop with its new and women's sizes has a bright collection of 12 g dresses and skirts. There's a great countryside print in a wraparound ($26) to pair with many of the solid color tops. They really have

D. Gene Nelly de Gr. h use and gold red green overland up on a long skirted dress of woollike polyester, made with short sleeves and patch pockets ($18). From Donal D. v. s of Dublin, front buttoned jackets in street lengths, using authoring plaids: rose and gray or blue and lavender, or navy with white ($18)

To pull a new skirt or a lazzo pants a batch of bright dresses ranging from a metallic and sleeveless shirt ($10) to long sleeved pink top ($18 to $21)

Artsy-Crafty Fun

It's time to discover Silver's Stone Age, over on Route 31 Pennington, in the little shopping center across from the Thriftway store. Here is a large collection of interesting rocks, semi-precious stones, and all kinds of equipment and necessities for the fastest growing hobby of all

A truly fascinating place you can take a youngster with you to browse the pocket-money table, where nothing is over 50 cents. As a youth gift, consider a kit that will grow crystals ($3.30 to $5.50).

In addition to rocks, geodes, polished onyx eggs ($1.15), Triassic period sandstone, the shop has Mexican turquoise and sterling silver jewelry with little or no mark-up in price ($1.75 to $12); jade jewelry from the orient with 14 K gold ($6), and bead necklaces from India in polished brown amber and tawny yellow stones ($7 to $15). Quite a find! (Open 10 to 5:30; Thursdays and Fridays until 9 p.m.)

The Artists' Shack at Pennington on Route 31, Pennington offers a stable of oil portraitists who work from photographs ($65 and up, depending on size).

There's a new transfer process called "Authentique," which contains antiquing materials for transferring a photo or print onto canvas and giving it the look of an aged oil painting ($14.95). An interesting suggestion! The Shack also has bronzing kits from which a torch, a candlestick, and other items may be made ($1.98)

And a great stock of fresh supplies for the decoupage craft, including two tall racks deep with prints for paper, glue or for framing ($1 and

Memorabilia

You can walk into an antiques shop and come out with about any old gift. We went to two such places, and it was hard to tear away.

Country Antiques, on Nassau Street opposite Cox's, has lovely old blue plates in an assortment of patterns; Victorian pitchers including a Wedgwood design on white china featuring a rich blue handle and apricot-tinted flowers. ($20).

There's a selection of silver items—fine old spoons, some in sets of teaspoons of pure silver, a sauceboat with wood handle and matching saucer, a creamer and sugar ($21.50).

To round out a hostess's supply, dessert or salad plates in white with a liligree rim touched with gold (set of 6); some Haviland fruit dishes in pure white; a cut glass bowl in the moon-and-star pattern ($24); old oil paintings — by an unknown for the most part.

Anybody Sight a UFO Thanksgiving Morning?

WOULD ANYONE WHO spotted UFO early Thursday morning, please call me! My husband thinks I am hallucinating. 466-7412.

Mrs. Lisa Benner, 53, of the Rocky Hill-Blawenburg Road, saw an Unidentified Flying Object at 2:50 a.m. on Thanksgiving morning. In response to her classified advertisement in Town Topics, she has heard from two other women who also saw a UFO early that morning.

Mrs. Benner saw the object at the tip of the woods in view from her kitchen door. She had opened the door to let out the cat. As she went outdoors, she says, the object moved to wards her and then made an abrupt right turn. It went along the side of the airport moving towards Rocky Hill. Rushing into the house for her binoculars, she returned to spot the object disappearing over Rocky Hill in a direction she describes as "just short of the quarry."

Her two callers saw the object, they said, at 5 a.m. approximately and at about 6 a.m.

ton group will be in that one another choir will do a Haydn Mass and the third will sing either the Beethoven Mass in C or a Schubert Mass, or the Durufle.

"We've done all the rest, so we chose the Brahms," Mr. Trego said.

Concertizing. All participating choirs will have a chance to give independent concerts, and Mr. Trego hopes PHS can perform twice, independently in Vienna and maybe even Salzburg.

The choirs will also sing 25 minutes for adjudication before a panel of international judges.

"What we receive will be a critique," explained Mr. Trego, and he added with a grin, "We won't be rated, because we're all superior or we wouldn't be there."

Need any more information? Call Mr. Trego, 924-5688, ext. 232.

COUNCILMAN TO STAY

Moore Turns Down Offer. Joseph P. Moore, Borough Councilman, has decided to stay with both town and gown.

Mr. Moore, who is Assistant Dean of Student Affairs at Princeton University, was offered the job of Assistant to the Chancellor at the University of Massachusetts.

However, he's decided to stay in Princeton. Mr. Moore said he made his final decision this Monday having been offered the job early in November.

"I declined to accept, for private reasons," he said.

Mr. Moore, a Democrat, will begin his third year on Council January 1. He has been in the University post for three and one-half years and is a life-long resident of Princeton.

A woman getting up early for a visit with her children for Thanksgiving, looked outdoors at 5 a.m. to check on the weather. Mrs. Brenner did not release her name, but states that the woman lives two blocks away from Princeton Medical Center. She saw a UFO moving in the direction of Witherspoon Street and was hindered by the houses from seeing further.

The second caller told Mrs. Brenner that her children first spotted the UFO and had called to her to look. She described the object as "a balloon" and as quite high up. The woman spoke with a strong accent and Mrs. Brenner was unable to figure out just where she and the children saw the object.

As Mrs. Brenner, an artist, describes her own experience:

"It was definitely round. It was a big, bright light moving fast. I can only compare it by standing at the kitchen door, looking out. It tipped the woods. That doesn't mean it hit the trees. There's a lot of sky behind the trees. The trees are bare.

"The moon was high. It was a very cold night, still. The moon was nearly full. I ran out and there was frost on the grass.

It went rolling toward me. The silence and the speed are what impressed us all. It was eerie, and at first I was frightened. When it was over me, I saw a string of lights, not red, but raspberry color, which did not blink. I counted three, but there were more.

"A Quiet Noise." "When it was above me, I heard some kind of motor. Before, there had just been stillness. It was a quiet noise. I thought about it all day and Thanksgiving afternoon it came to me. It sounded just like when you idle a car very quietly.

"It made a sharp right turn right over me and went towards Rocky Hill. I ran into the house to get my binoculars, and by the time I got back and focused, I only saw it faintly.

"That whole valley around the Princeton airport people should have seen it. It went alongside the airport, but not over, from where I stood. One of the two callers, age 60, was afraid to tell anyone.

That she had sighted a strange object in the sky. She feared her family would think she was senile, she told Mrs. Benner. She waited two days after seeing the query in TOWN TOPICS before she phoned.

Her mother, she told Mrs. Benner, saw a round "bunch of lights" over Springdale golf course 53 years ago, that took off vertically in one split second. Her family teased her about it for years, but now there's one daughter who says she thinks there may be something to it after all.

"It is a very frustrating experience," Mrs. Benner goes on. I could have called my husband and then there would have been two people who saw it at ten minutes of three. I wish I had. But I was so engrossed. You know I just stood there on that cold ground. I couldn't get over that bright light. I didn't even have my robe.

Was it a UFO? A weather balloon? An atmospheric phenomena? Mrs. Benner believes the former. She had many people call her in response to her query in the paper, all but two were "just curious."

"My husband is still denying me, but it makes me feel a little better that two others have seen something.

CHAMBER PLANS MEETING

To Set Program of Action.
Some 300 business and professional members of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce will attend meetings this Thursday to discuss the question: "What is the single most important project, activity or thing, which if carried out by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce would make the Princeton area a better place in which to live and do business?"

The meetings are being held to help formulate a vital program of action for 1973. N. L. Carnevale, Chamber president, J. Thiesmeyer of Western Electric and L. L. Vivian of Princeton University will lead the round table discussions to develop program ideas.

All ideas generated in the meeting will be turned over to a Program Committee for incorporation in next year's program which will be ready for adoption by the Board of Directors early in 1973.

Two meetings are scheduled for Thursday, at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., so that all members may attend one at their convenience.

TRENTON PAIR NABBED

Moments After Theft Quick Acting Borough Police Arrested two Trenton men Friday afternoon just moments after they had allegedly stolen a clothing from Harris' Department Store on Witherspoon Street.

Arrested by Detective Thomas M. Chaud and P.D. Victor Farnella and charged with possession of stolen property were Charles Thompson, 26, and Richard Lockhart, 27.

Thompson was also charged with possession of narcotic paraphernalia. The two were later released in their own recognizance. They were scheduled to appear in Borough Court this Wednesday. The arrest took place at the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins Street.

LEIGH AVE. HOME ROBBED

TV, Stereo, Camera Taken.
Township police have warrants out for the arrest of Craig Bullock, 22, 102 1/2 Leigh Avenue, who is a suspect in the breaking and entering Friday of the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Garity, 98 Leigh Avenue.

Taken from the home were a TV set, stereo, camera and liquor with a combined value of $333. Police said that a screen was cut from a side window to gain entrance between 8:30 and 11 a.m.

Detectives Norman Servino and Anthony Pinelli are continuing the investigation. Bullock has managed to elude custody so far.

$37 BOOTS SHOPLIFTED

From Richard's Shoes. A $37 pair of boots was shoplifted Monday afternoon from Richard's Shoes, 148 150 Nassau Street.

Police described the suspect as a woman, 22, 57, heavy build, wearing a white trench coat. As soon as they were notified, Borough police notified the Merchant Alert Plan.

JOBS OPEN

On Borough Boards. Five volunteer jobs on various Borough advisory are open for application. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week.

The Library's Board of Trustees will lose Conrad Snowdon, the Shade Tree Commission is losing Richard Lindahry and the Civil Rights Commission will no longer have Grady Harris, the mayor said.

Also, Mayor Cawley wants two more volunteers for the Historic Sites Commission, which will become more active as a new Master Plan gets under way.

And there is still an opening on the Police Advisory Committee. "I would like to appoint a young black woman," the mayor said.

Anyone interested in any of these positions may send an application to Borough Hall, giving a brief biography and outlining experience and interests.

Recreation Activities

compiled by the Recreation Commission

The Princeton Recreation Department's Dillon Basketball Program got into full swing Saturday, December 2, with 12 teams participating. Nearly 100 youngsters turned out for the organizational meeting, when each player was evaluated and placed on a team.

Princeton University campus organizations, such as eating clubs, sponsor the teams, providing uniforms, coaching, and enthusiastic support. The junior teams, made up of players ages 11 and 12, and the senior teams, ages 13 and 14, will play each Saturday morning from 9 to 12 at Dillon Gym.

Baton twirling classes have also been initiated by the Recreation Department under the supervision and coaching of Elysa Scharf, a Princeton University freshman. State champion and captain of the New Jersey State Team for three years, Miss Scharf is instructing youngsters, grades 3-8, each Saturday morning from 10 to 12 at John Witherspoon School.

Assisted by volunteers, Miss Scharf is working with both beginning and experienced twirlers, placed in one hour sessions according to ability.

UNITE THE LOOK?

Neighbors Protest Road. A "unite the look" road which probably won't see a bulldozer for another decade, occupied the Princeton Regional Planning Board for almost two hours Tuesday night as residents of the Township's western front gathered in Borough Hall to protest re-alignment of a proposed Loop Road segment.

Originally in the Township's 1968 Master Plan, the segment ran, in part, along Princeton Line. Rabbinian L. Lawrence, resident who owns property on Princeton Line, objected and went to court. The court ordered Princeton and Lawrence to sit down and work out a mutually satisfactory agreement.

out of Lawrence entirely, run it parallel to that road about 1,000 feet east, near the rear line of lots on Galbraith West.

As might be expected, several residents of Galbraith showed up in Borough Hall. So did neighbors on Province Line and Rosedale, to a room of about two dozen. Nobody wanted any part of any road at all, re-aligned or not.

Master Plan line Hans K. Sander, Planning Board chairman, reminded everybody that Princeton's first community-wide Master Plan will be ready in mid-1973. This will mean re-examination of the entire road system, so any decision on this Loop segment

A Librarian Who Doesn't Like Seagulls

Readers and librarians don't always agree about what books are good books, as Princeton's public librarian Robert Staples has found over the years.

This fall, for example, he finds to his own personal dismay that Richard Packer's "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" is still a strong "best-seller." "I can't figure it out," he says, shaking his head.

But he agrees with library patrons that "The Odessa File," by Forsyth-Fredrick, and "The Advertising Man" by Jack Dillon, are "high-grade fiction" and worthy of a weekend's reading. "Semi-bash," is what Mr. Staples says of "Semi-Tough," by Dan Jenkins. "Contrived, purpled-up pro football," is his scornful comment and he reports that men who are pro fans, tell him the book is over rated.

Long continuing popularity is often the pleasant fate of a best-seller. "The Lion and the Unicorn," for example, still has around 30 reserves at the library for the eight copies Mr. Staples has in stock. The novel, "The Years Alone," describing Eleanor Roosevelt's life after the death of Franklin Roosevelt, isn't particularly popular. Mr. Staples has found. A sudden spurt of interest has landed "Tim OK, You're OK" on the "reserve-it-for-me" list, he reports.

Current books that are Princeton favorites are "August, 1914," by Solzhenitsyn, "Museums and Women" by John Updike (a favorite Staples' author) and "Fare in the Lake," Frances Fitzgerald's reportage on Vietnam.

"My Paris," Maurice Chevalier's assemblage of favorite photographs of his favorite city, has been given to the library in honor of the Golden Anniversary of a Princeton couple.

Each year, the library receives around $300 from people who want to give books in the name of a friend or relative, and Mr. Staples is delighted. "It's a practice I'd love to encourage."

made now is temporary.

He also emphasized the paper nature of the road, and assured everybody that there was no intent to condemn land at any time. Nor was there, so far, any municipal appropriation for the Loop Road.

Minot C. Morgan Jr., general manager of the Institute for Advanced Study, who has been a prime Loop Road mover, pointed out that the Loop's southern strand — utilizing West Windsor and Plainsboro and designed for heavy traffic — was probably something everyone in Princeton wanted.

If a segment of the whole Loop is omitted, he warned, state and Federal money for the southern part might be hard to get.

Mr. Sander told the audience that it made sense to align the road behind the Province Line lots because they were about 800 feet deep. Running the Loop closer to the existing road, or widening Province Line to encompass it, would encroach on Province Line front yards, or slice lots in two, board members said.

In the end, they decided by a 6-4 vote, to discuss it in executive session. Three Borough members, Mayor Robert W. Cawley, Bryan V. Moore and William Walker, joined Township member Gerald Breese, in the "nay."

After a brief executive session, the Board unanimously decided to put the alignment back where it was on the 1960 Township Master Plan map. Since this is the location that prompted Mr. Linker's suit, the question is now in the hands of the lawyers.

Turning to the Borough, the board amended the official map updating it but adding nothing new. The map will be acted on next Tuesday by Borough Council.

Two roads, subject of long-ago controversy, have been removed: the one through Marquand Park and the Bayard-Alexander link. Also, the map no longer recommends a park on the northwest sewer field on Elm Road, or a park on the old quarry, near Lloyd Terrace.

EARLY TRIAL ASKED

For Carpi Murder Case. Judge Arthur J. Salvatore has stated he will set an early date for the murder trial of Colig C. Carpi of Princeton as soon as the necessary information has been exchanged between the two attorneys.

Judge Salvatore said that once he is assured that both the Mercer County Prosecutor's office and Mr. Carpi's attorney, Gerald R. Stockman, have complied with discovery procedures customary before trials begin, and both are satisfied that discovery is complete, the date can be established.

This process should be completed within a month the judge said. Mr. Stockman asked for an early trial date in accordance with the defendant's constitutionally protected right to a speedy trial. He told the judge, "The pressures from the publicity have been great on Mr. Carpi and his children."

Mr. Carpi has been charged with the murder of his wife, Laura, who the police say was shot in the head February 8, 1971 at her rented State Road home in the Township. Her body was found four months later in the East River.

Mr. Carpi was indicted by a county grand jury on August 19, 1971. This indictment was quashed four months later by Judge A. Jerome Moore on the grounds that the detector test evidence should not have been admitted. It was reinstated on October 26 of this year by the Appellate Division of State Superior Court.

Good News from PHS.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Read news from Princeton High School attracts our immediate attention and interest. However, we tend to overlook the many Princeton High School students who conduct themselves responsibly, care about their fellow students, and are willing to work to demonstrate their care.

Over the past few months, many Princeton High School students have been involved in fund raising for the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation, a tax exempt corporation founded by the Princeton High School PTA to administer scholarships to Princeton High School seniors.

Students coordinated, conducted each phase of publicity and planning, and gave a splendid, spirited performance of the musical, Of Thee I Sing.

to raise money for scholarships.

The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation is grateful to the student cast, Drama 73 directed by Mr. William Cook who directed the production, Mr. Lawrence Mansier and Mrs. Ariene S. d. g. and students, Walter Broner, Michael Godnick, and Sarah Jane Lithgow), to the Symphony Band under the baton of Mr. Jack Horner, to Mrs. Carol Wimbberg who choreographed the show, and to the Parent Committee headed by Mrs. Jean McAndrew.

Perhaps a Princeton High School student raised a doorbell last month to sell you a magazine subscription on explanation that proceeds would be used for scholarships. The Princeton High School PTA magazine drive supervised by Mrs. Ruth Scholman, was a successful venture of the enthusiastic participation of high school students.

As a result of this community effort by many Princeton High School students, more than $1700 will be donated to the Foundation. The sum will be awarded to several members of the Princeton High School Class of 73 who will require financial assistance to complete their education or training. This forms the basis of the Princeton High School Student-to-Student Grant.

We think these are most worthy heads for Princeton High School and its staff. We thank them for their efforts. And we thank you for continuing your support of our young people.

MRS. HENRY H. FREEDMAN, P

WPRB Programming III.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

WPRB, the student-run radio station at the University, has recently decided to "form a more cohesive air sound and to appeal to a wider audience." (Town Topics, Nov. 30). In plain language WPRB has dispensed with classical music during the evening hours when people would most like to hear it.

There are alternatives to the station's Diktat. It would be possible to broaden the classical music earlier in the evening and still have room for later "cohesive air sound."

It would be possible to reduce the classical hours from three to two and still "appeal to a wider audience." It would even be possible to program classical music two evenings a week instead of five. Such sophistication in programming, however, the station seems to lack.

WPRB has not stated the nature of complaints from people who dislike classical music, nor has it revealed surveys showing that the classical audience is small or that it would be able to listen during the "13 daily time slot."

The station has only handed its response to be distinctive, to perform one of the principal services that a non-profit college radio station can perform. It no longer deserves the support of the community from which it has drawn its audience in the past.

Welcome to IDA.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following the text of letter we have written to Princeton Town Planning Commission.

We wish to commend the Committee for its sensible action in refusing to hold a public hearing on the matter of IDA's new research center. The buildings will be erected on five wooded acres in that section of the Township which is specifically zoned for of research use. All that is necessary for IDA to do is to buy the land, and apply for a building permit.

We are proud that IDA chose to build in Princeton. We have been told that 40 people who are connected with IDA actually live in Princeton. Our Committee is very pleased that this new rateable worth $2,500,000 is to be added to our tax rolls. This will produce about $80,000 in taxes a year, equal to 30 new $60,000 homes. But it will not produce any school children who will need to be in Township.

Our Committee was fortunate in being able to obtain a copy of the petition with 1680 signatures. We understand that the organizers of the pressure group which circulated the petition were upset by this. However, it became a public document as soon as it was read to our elected officials. Of course we read it. Hence we could never have seen it as a petition. Perhaps the author of this note thinks they're still in harm. They may even have written it while junketing in North Vietnam.

Thorough study of the petition showed that many of the signers did not live in the Township. Australia, Stockholm, Kendall Park, the Project off Harrison St. and a dozen other addresses were represented, but we were able to identify, by name and address, only 34 taxpayers. Since in many instances both husband and wife signed the petition, it was easy to determine just about how strong this minority "peace" group is. It represents a tiny fraction of Princeton's total population which used to wave Viet Cong flags at rallies and "anti-war" rallies. Nice people!

Our Committee represents a majority group, the taxpayers. We elected Township Committee. We do not have to circulate petitions and a sept signatures from anyone. Whether they live in Trenton, Hightstown or Melbourne. We believe that we can rely on the fine people we elected to office to represent us fairly and faithfully, and to date they have done so.

Kid Stuff — and More Kid Stuff
Magnetic pictures for the very young to assemble in any way they choose, put the cow in the tree, or whatever; a four-poster doll bed with white pique canopy; clowns and tigers that are really pajama bags ($4-$5); a dollhouse fireplace ($5), and piles of stocking stuffers at low prices — all at Stuff 'N Nonsense, 10 Moore Street.
"Come Dance With Me," the Princeton Tiger who dances with his feet attached to his partner's shoes ($6). At Stone's Linen Shop, Nassau Street.
The Octopus — or the Hedgehog — from the friction toy collection at Gallery 100, Nassau Street ($1.10)

It's New To Us

gift items in Christmas themes — and at low prices:
Gilt Christmas cherubs with the Renaissance look, made in Italy ($5), each is different; and elegant Florentine boxes with decoupage pictures and all-over gilding (from $2.50, depending on size).
Marvelous mohair blankets of Scottish wool — a flame tone misted with golds and pale green; other combinations, as well (48x12, $35).
Imagine a small set of six white swans in plain china, what-nots for the dinner party table, to fill with nuts, or salt, or place card or to use as ashtrays ($3). Placecards in flower-pattern china ($5.50); others are owls, roosters and birds, all in china.
Tumbler and dish sets, some in Limoges; Christmas place-mats in prints with coordinate napkins; also Christmas cloths; fun aprons in Austrian prints; bar aprons for men in a choice of red denim with blue trim or a railroad engineer stripe; hand-earred boxes from Poland with intriguing geometric design (about $5), imaginative designs in potholders, Christmas linen dish towels; three styles of feminine slippers to choose from, including one with a maribou toe.

A lingerie case with hanger and four zippered compartments with clear plastic fronts ("everything in its place"), and pure wool stole scarves as light as nothing at all from the Churchill Weavers of Berea, Ky., for an elegant addition to an evening dress. All colors and extraordinarily wide, yet no bulk at all ($16).

Holiday Themes
Trims for the house and for the Yule tree are intriguing projects, especially if you are among those who add one or two prized items each year.
At Gallery 100, on Nassau Street, glowing stained glass angels about five inches high, held upright by a clelet. A blue winged angel, perhaps, with garnet wings ($7.50), and other color combinations.
Christmas tree ornaments that look like baked cookies, and mobiles with shepherd-sheep theme.
To capture the sunlight or to grace the table, plates of hand-blown Mexican glass in pure swirls of color: all blue or all gold ($2). Goblets, too. And folk painted small boxes from Vienna, to use in a number of ways (under $5).

Ukrain Supply on Witherspoon Street has amber and green teardrop lights that twinkle on the tree outdoors. Other lights include sparkling, clear bulbs as well as the mixed, frosted colors.

All principal roles will be shared by Kapran, Patricia Caputo, Dana Zeydel, Margaret Zeydel, and Christine Brady.

A SECOND P.J. & B!

"Jacques Brel" The season's first P.J. & B. production is just getting ready for opening night, but director Milton Lyon is already planning a second production, scheduled for a five-performance run early in February.

It's going to be "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris." Mr. Lyon has blocked out a schedule calling for performances Thursday and Friday nights, February 8 and 9 at 8:30; two performances Saturday night, at 7 p.m. and 10 p.m., and a Sunday matinee at 3 p.m. There will be no Saturday matinee.

The late evening performance Saturday fits in nicely with the cabaret atmosphere of "Jacques Brel." The music has been built around the songs and commentary of the man regarded by many as France's greatest living popular composer.

The production in its arrangement by Mort Schuman, and Eric Blau, consists of 22 of Brel's songs, translated and incorporated into a combination of cabaret, musical and drama.

Auditions Set. "The original off Broadway production had only four performers. Mr. Lyon has expanded this to about a dozen, but since there is no choreography, auditions will be limited to principal roles. They are not open to anyone under 20 years of age.

Auditions will be held at McCarter Saturday, December 16 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Sunday, December 17 from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Those who wish to audition should call the theatre at 921-3766 between 1 and 5 daily to arrange for a specific time.

Louis Criss, McCarter's artistic director will direct "The Tempest" and David Jenkins who did the decor for "The Two of Us," will design the production. He will be remembered for his work at McCarter in 1970-71, when he designed "The Importance of Being Earnest" and "The Homecoming."

THRILLER!
 "Rider on the Rain," the French thriller "Rider on the Rain" will be shown at McCarter Monday at 8 p.m. The film was originally scheduled for November and was postponed because the prints were not ready in time.

Director Rene Clement sets his scene in a deserted, sea-side resort. A lonely housewife commits a murder and is thereafter haunted by a mysterious stranger who may or may not have seen the crime. Critics have called the film "the best thriller since '22'."

BLUES SINGER HERE.
 Sponsored by Folk Society, Southern Blues singer John Jackson will appear in concert this Friday at 8:15 p.m. at the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, Witherspoon and Quarry Streets. The concert is sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Jackson, born in rural, southern Virginia, learned to play guitar at the age of four and got his songs from many sources — his father and other relatives, musicians traveling through the area, early phonograph records of the great bluesmen and a water boy from a chain gang near his home.

Although he has sung and played all his life, Jackson only began public appearance in 1964. Since then he has performed in festivals and concerts throughout the country including the Fox Hollow Mariposa, Smithsonian and Philadelphia Folk Festivals and tours of Europe.

Admission to the John Jackson concert is $2 general admission and $1.50 for students. Members get a discount and memberships are available at the door. There are no advance ticket sale.

For further information contact Mrs. Caroline Morelos, 113 Linwood Circle, 921-3588.

The concert is one in a series of folk music events presented by the Princeton Folk Music Society during 1972-73.

SPECIAL SHOWS SET
by Two Groups From Haiti
For Haitian dancers and musicians, Andre Jeanty, Troup Folklorique and the Orchestre Jazz des Jeunes, fresh from triumphs at the 1972 Carnival, will perform at 8:15 p.m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Pierce Hall at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.
Records of the shows will be the Haitian Scholarship Fund, founded by several Princetonians and a New Hope, Pa., businessman to bring Haitian youth to the United States for education.

Jazz des Jeunes and Troup Folklorique give imagination to Haitian performances, dances that have their origins in Africa and in the slave revolts of the late 1790's to music that has lived on through nearly two centuries of independent black culture. The two units represented Haiti at Expo '67.

Andre Jeanty, a professional dancer, drummer and singer for over two decades, leads his troupe of 18 dancers in performances of "The Dance Dilemma" in honor of the majestic Bogu gods, portraying the tribe's preference for suicide to slavery, "The Dance Congo," from the second voodoo rite; "The Dance Maitre," called the dance of the first performed in honor of the war god; In voodoo, master Ogoun Ferrel, and expressing determination to fight for freedom and self-determination.

Other dances: "Nan" a war dance; "Banda," the dance of death, erotic and sensual and one in which the Baron Samedi, guardian of the cemeteries, comes out poking fun at death; and "Petra," from the third voodoo rite depicting the powerful nature of the Petro gods. It was danced during the Boukman slave revolt of 1901.

Jazz des Jeunes led by big René St. Aude, one of the great saxophonists of the 1940s, features arrangements by trumpeter composer Antonio O. Murat, now in his 70's, one of the musical geniuses of Haiti. Organized in 1943, Jazz has performed for years to Caribbean and international audiences. And Haiti, an singer, Girard Dupervil, now appearing in Chicago, has been brought here to perform with the group.

The Haitian Scholarship Fund, a new effort, now being incorporated as a non-profit fund in New Jersey. The committee includes a resident alien Haitian living in Princeton, an Episcopal priest, a black administrator from Princeton University, among other educators and financial advisors. Advances to develop the tour of the two groups has been provided from a Princeton bank on the personal signatures of two members of the committee. Tickets are available at the door on the nights of the performances. Prices are $7.50 patrons, $5 regular admission, $3 students and children.

Jadwin Gym No Place for Symphony Orchestra

Jadwin Gym may be a magnificent place to play basketball, but not a symphony. On Monday night, the Chicago Symphony Orchestra played its Mahler's 5th and Mahler's 1st. George Solti, one of the world's great conductors, made a valiant attempt at steering his forces through the vast space and time of this huge edifice, but to little avail. The fans were tremulous. The music one can say, but they were never quite able to hear the music. These were the age blunders that had Jadwin.

Once set on automatic, they are, themselves, and every thing else off. Even the voluminous Chicago Symphony Orchestra was no match for them. And so for the first time in its glorious history, an outdoor event was delayed because of the fans.

The audience orchestra, and late conductor waited for the custodial staff to overturn the outside switch and finally when it was still the breeze, the king beauty of the famous Adagio from Mahler's 5th Symphony began to fill the hall. Actually it filled only a small part of the hall, for regardless where one found a seat, the orchestra sounded distant and timorally depicted.

Crisp Tempo. The concert opened with Mr. Solti directing the Chicagoans in a splendid reading of Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave Overture." The tempo was crisp, the strings sibilant and smooth (what one could hear of them). In fact, the music seemed to sound as if it were emanating from deep down in Fingal's cave.

But, enough has been said about the horrendous acoustics of Jadwin Gym. It is obviously no place to hold a concert of this nature, unless some way can be found to enclose the three sides and overhead areas of the orchestra.

Even that might not help direct the sound properly as the Gym is simply too large spatially. Why have a concert in such a place one might ask? The answer is obviously, economics. An educated guess is that the Chicago Symphony Orchestra does not have a reply.

Let us say they play for $11,000 to $12,000. Mr. Carter Theatre, even with a finding room would not accommodate such a few.

Another Approach. In Europe where governments sponsor all major artists, problems such as this need never occur. But in the United States, it is often another story.

The concert committee would like to bring the finest soloists and orchestras to Princeton but how can it when faced with a meager budget from which to operate? The Jadwin Gym was a noble experiment, but it failed. Still and all, it brought more than 3,000 people young and old, all of them enthusiastic to hear one of the great symphonies of a man.

It is hard to understand how Mahler could have once been so neglected when one hears his glorious music. The man captured the spirit and meaning of his Viennese and Austrian society at the turn of the century in this abstract art form we call symphony.

He captured this in an expression that characterizes the culture probably better than all the words and paintings, dramas and buildings that evolved from that now distant period in world affairs.

It was a great era, this waning 19th century aristocracy, the autumn of Romanticism. The last of the Mahler School of Austro-German symphonists, Gustav Mahler had created in this work and perhaps in all of his great masterpieces, a moment of this society which still breathes through this exquisitely wrought series of tone paintings.

Despite the acoustic difficulties, Mr. Solti led his orchestra in a marvelously paced reading. The intermission taken between the second movement and the Scherzo was unfortunate, for it broke the continuity of the work.

All in all, the ensemble mastery was evident. Every section of this orchestra is strong and the playing is clean and full-bodied. Mr. Solti's interpretation of the lovely Adagio was on a lofty plain without the over romanticizing that occasionally creeps in some of his recorded performances of Bruckner's symphonies.

The Scherzo, one of the great movements in all the Symphonic literature, probably suffered the most because of the hall. The sounds seemed to skip in staggered sequence from the basses to the first violins on the other side and the total effect was similar to a stereo condition known as the "hole in the middle." One can say he evening was an experience.

Save most by not calling person-to-person!

You always save on calls when you dial direct, without the services of an operator. But you save even more by dialing out-of-state calls in the evening or on weekends when rates are lower still.

There's also a low 1-minute rate on direct-dialed calls after 11 p.m. every night.

While we've only shown sample rates to other states, there are savings on direct-dialed calls within New Jersey, too. And additional savings during bargain calling times on New Jersey calls over 25 miles.

With dialing direct so easy and convenient, it makes sense to dial all calls yourself. Because the rates are always lower than for calls requiring the services of an operator, such as credit card, collect, third number billed, person-to-person, and coin-phone calls to other states.

edy, will be given next Thursday by the Hun School Drama Department in the school's auditorium. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

In "Come Blow Your Horn," the audience will find a father (Dennis Warwick) who owns the largest artificial fruit business in the east. He has two sons, played by John Videback and Greg Schmidt, who joins with their girl friends, portrayed by Amy Grodnick and Jane Schwab, to provide typically Simon comic situations. Tera O'Shea will play the mother.

MORE MARCEAU

Madnee Added, Marcel Marceau, the renowned French pantomime artist, will give an added performance Saturday, January 27, at 2:30 p.m. at McCarter. Tickets are now on sale.

Both of M. Marceau's evening performances, Friday and Saturday, January 26 and 27, are sold out.

Butterflies Are Free (now playing). Goldie Hawn, Eileen Heckart and Edward Albert give fine performances in this adaption of the Broadway comedy.

The film version is a charming, rather steady look at youthful expressionism. There is more depth to it than to most of the recent screen comedies.

The story concerns the attempt of a young singer-composer to escape his mother and try for success on his own. The boy is blind. A very free kiwi bird of a girl from next door to his San Francisco apartment comes breezing in to his life. The film bats their relationship back and forth, inserting his unintentionally domineering mother, and when it is all over, all three have learned something.

Goldie Hawn is delightful as the girl who would treasure a quote about liberated butterflies but never know or care who said it. Albert's performance matches hers; and Miss Heckart comes on strong.

GAROEN

Richard III (now playing). Laurence Olivier presents here the story of that "lump of deformity" who, next to Hamlet, is the favorite of all dramatic actors. The film was first released in 1956.

The production is lavish, as were Olivier's "Henry V" and "Hamlet", with much color, pageantry and a tapestry-like quality. The pretense of a purist interpretation the bard is dropped in favor of making a good motion picture.

Olivier's Richard is a brooding embodiment of evil ambition. In support are such easy experts as Sir Cedric Hardwicke, John Gielgud and Ralph Richardson. The women, Shakespeare's weakest point, are ably done, particularly by Claire Bloom as the Lady Anne. The role of Queen Margaret with her malevolencies has been cut completely.

Added to the sonorous majesty of the blank verse, and the classic movement of the tragic plot, are a competent and revealing use of color and an extraordinary feeling for medieval symbolism, both used to set the mood and to aid in telling the story.

Players Welcome Guests

Several scenes will be performed this Sunday evening by members of Betty Fenton's acting workshop when Community Players holds its December meeting.

Time is 8:30 p.m., and the place is the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road and Route 206. Everyone interested in the theatre is invited to attend.

Mrs. Fenton's group has been working together since early this fall.

Candlelight Service Set

The Christmas season will be ushered in at Princeton University this Thursday at 8 p.m. with the annual candlelight service of carols, lessons and Holy Communion in the University Chapel.

A feature of the service, which has grown steadily in popularity since it was originated by Chapel Dean Ernest Gordon in 1955, will be the presentation of a series of African Christmas carols by 20 voices from the Chapel Choir. The Princeton Brass Quintet, an undergraduate group, will play for a half-hour before the service, to which the public is invited.

Robert D. Hoffelt '73, last year's President of the Chapel Choir, will be the organist. Dean Gordon will be the Communion celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Charles P. Henderson, Jr., Assistant Dean of the University Chapel. After the service, refreshments will be served in Murray-Dodge Hall.

Norton Simon Collection Places Raphael "Madonna" on View Here

Selections from the Norton Simon, Inc. Museum of Art represent the significant movements and artists of the past five centuries. Beginning with a Botticelli (1474), the exhibit threads its way through the Renaissance to the present, noting changes of style, content and attitude. Although it is not possible, within the scope of one collection, or within this museum to provide a comprehensive record of art since the Renaissance, there are enough representative paintings to enable the viewer to absorb time, alteration and growth as well as the aesthetic changes that have accompanied the history of art.

The present display has been made even more dynamic by the last minute addition of the newly-acquired Raphael "Madonna and Child with Book," on public display for the first time. Valued at more than $3 million, the painting is among the very few by this artist to be in an American collection. There are only six in America and its presence in the United States marks a major contribution to the nation's art.

"Madonna and Child with Book" is a youthful Raphael, painted in 1504. Its existence was guessed at by a German scholar as long ago as 1914 on the basis of four preparatory drawings.

The painting itself has been in an English country house and was only seen by scholars in the late 1940s. Among these scholars was Bernard Berenson, who declared it to be an early Raphael and included it in his revised list of paintings by central Italian painters, published in 1908.

A $3-MILLION RAPHAEL: "Madonna and Child with Book," painted by the Renaissance master in 1504, will be on view throughout 1973 in the Art Museum of Princeton University. More than 5,000 people went to the Museum this past Sunday to see the Raphael and the full Norton Simon collection of which it is now a part.

One of the remarkable features of the collection is the quality of the work. Most of them are exceptional examples of both the artist and his era. Their condition is excellent; they have maintained their color and their surface quality. They are all verified and established, a not always simple task.

Major sculpture of the past century is a significant part of this display. Rodin, Maillol, Degas, Picasso, Henry Moore and Matisse are among the artists displayed. The sculpture is significant in that this art form experienced its own renaissance in the middle of the 19th century. Relatively dormant except for the execution of conventional monuments, the reemergence of sculpture as a creative form can be seen in the works of Rodin and some of his contemporaries. Beginning at this time, many major artists expressed themselves through sculpture as well as paint, and fine examples are to be found here.

Era of Transition. A great deal of attention is given to the painting of the past hundred years. This covers an era of great transition, and the paintings on view are most effective in helping to understand the evolution of style and perspective that very logically lead to contemporary art forms.

The past century was an era of great artistic adventure. While new points of view flourished as "schools," artists set out, individually, to find new forms and new means of expression.

Color, form, content and the absence of color, form and content were all examined, compounded, developed and designed until all of art moved out from under the more formal structure of its history and set upon its present course. Pointillists, impressionists, cubists, fauves and expressionists all sought their own means of visual expression. An overview of these directions and possibly a deeper understanding of current styles can be gained through the carefully-assembled 19th and 20th century segments of the collection.

It is not possible to describe the impact and value of this collection. The overwhelming assemblage of masterpieces makes simple explanation or description impossible.

Its presence in Princeton for a full year is both a service and an honor to the community. The Art Museum, the University and the Norton Simon, Inc. Foundation are to be applauded for making this exhibition possible.

At The Drawing Room. Graceful, sensitive and carrying an aura of English life long past, eighteenth and nineteenth century watercolors are a visually pleasant reflection of the tastes and interests of that era. Small, finely-wrought works reveals a longing for the bucolic and an interest in travel.

This current collection of English art is a mixture of small, richly-toned and beautifully-executed watercolors and a few wash drawings and sketches. Many of them display an unusual palette in a minor key, revealing a creative approach to the formal watercolor landscape of the period. Others are remarkable for their finely-executed detail which functions well on both a literary and an aesthetic plane.

At the Present Day. Watercolors by the late George Ann Gillespie are a very personal record of her life and travels. Mrs. Gillespie found her way to many parts of the world and recorded her journeys carefully and skillfully. Using traditional watercolor techniques with a carefully developed eye for detail, this artist described Cambodia, Portugal, Italy and other far-off places. She also painted a few vistas and scenes in Virginia, Pennsylvania and other American landscapes.

Some figure studies and still life show the range of subject and interests of the artist.

Princeton artist Helen Schwartz will be featured at the Eye for Art, 7 Spring Street, through December.

Acrylics, oils, woodcuts, etchings and drawings, illustrating a variety of techniques are on display. For subject matter, Mrs. Schwartz has used scenes in this area, landscapes and a wide range of still life and nature studies. She follows a stylized but basically representative method.

Mrs. Schwartz has had many one-woman shows in the Princeton community, and has participated in group exhibits and competitions. These include the Mercer County Tercentenary, the New Jersey State Exhibit at Hunterdon County, and juried exhibits at McCarter Theatre, where she has been represented by both paintings and graphics. Her work has also been displayed at the Newark Art Museum Library and in galleries in New Hope, Greenwich, Conn., and Craftsbury, Vt.

She has taught at the Princeton Art Association, the YWCA, in workshops for the American Association of University Women and in her own Young People's Creative Workshop. She is on the faculty of the Princeton Art School and for the past three years has been TOWN TOPICS art critic.

The exhibit will include some of her paintings of Mexico, as well as a representative sample of folk art from different states in Mexico. Ceramic vases, trees of life, weavings, fabrics, embroidery, bark paintings, candlestick holders, decorative dishes and gourds, tinware and onyx pieces are included.

The show is free to the public. Library hours are Monday through Thursday 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. and Friday 8 to 5.

An art class of 20 students is now meeting at the Youth Center under Lee Aldrich and Kevin Varner. The class is being held in the afternoon. Plans are now forming for an evening class for adults. Information may be obtained by calling the Center at 924-0996.

EXHIBIT PLANNED

At Youth Center, The beginners' oil painting class of the Princeton Adult School will hold an exhibit of their work at the Princeton Youth Center from Friday, through Sunday December 17. Admission to the exhibit is free.

Like Football: Tiger Winter Sports in Trouble

Princeton's basketball team has lost its first two games for the first time in four years. The Tiger hockey team has been beaten in Baker Rink by the one opponent it topped away from home last season. The swimming team, hoping for a successful defense of its Eastern Intercollegiate League title, was walloped by Dartmouth, 73 to 40.

On the heels of the worst football season at Princeton in 26 years, the forecast is for a long, cold winter.

The Tiger quintet, which goes against a very young (three freshmen are starters) Rutgers team in Madison Square Garden Thursday night, may just possibly lose its first five games — a fate that the Orange and Black has not known in this sport since 1965, whenever that was. It is, however, not a poor team but one which is likely to play quite unevenly, and when it has one of its better nights, an upset will result.

Like virtually every eastern college except the Ivy League, Rutgers has made freshmen eligible for all sports, and the Class of 1976 at New Brunswick is good enough so that three of its members have beaten out well-regarded veterans for starting assignments.

SPORTS In Princeton

Best among them is Phil Sellers, a high school All American from Brooklyn who may well become the top player in the sport in the Scarlet's long court history.

Understandably, the freshman-manned Rutgers team will show signs of nervousness in the Madison Square Garden setting Thursday. Its potential, however, is considerably greater than Princeton's, and the New Brunswick quintet will be edged on by memories of the 99-68 shellacking that Brian Taylor and his mates handed an overconfident Scarlet team in last year's opener here.

Now Taylor and the speed that Princeton had have gone. So, unfortunately, has much of the aggressiveness that super-sub Reggie Bird and Captain Al Duffy injected into the Orange and Black. In losing the opener last week to a thoroughly odd man's Penn State team, 64-57, the Tigers were outscored by the visiting margin of 10 to 21.

Two from the South. A pair of opponents from below the Mason Dixon line follow Rutgers on the Middle Dayadron, which has won four out of seven from good Princeton teams in the past decade, will be in Judah's Gym Saturday night at 8. The tall southerners were victorious at home last a year, 61-54, and are likely to repeat their success here. Virginia, on the Princeton schedule for the first time, is due here next Tuesday at 8. The Cavaliers do not measure up to either Rutgers or Davidson, and if the Tigers are still looking for a victory before the holiday tournaments begin, this may be their best bet.

While the Princeton quintet has a variety of problems, which include such basics as mediocre shooting (36 percent in the first two games) and inconsistent rebounding (an 80 to 55 edge for the opposition so far), one of a primary difficulty is the poor start made by junior Andy Kruml. Whereas the 6-9 center outplayed such good big men as Rutgers' Gene Armstrong and North Carolina's highly touted Roy MacAdoo in his early career as a sophomore, he has had defensive and rebounding problems this fall, and has failed just 9 points.

Sophomore Brian O'Neill replaced junior John Hoggan as the starting lineup against Villanova, the switch putting a 6-2 guard where a 6-8 forward had been, but O'Neill contributed 14 points and had the toughest opponent to guard in Villanova's hot shooting, Tom Inglesby. The latter, with 23, was the decisive factor in the Wildcats' 54-46 triumph.

Similar Pattern. In both the Penn State and Villanova games, the Tigers trailed by 20-26 at the half. In each contest, a rally brought them even but they could not hang on.

Penn State outshot the home team 22 to 1 over a 13 minute stretch in the second half, leading by as many as 16 before the frantic Tigers closed the gap slightly. Captain Ted Manakas produced a game-high 20 for the Orange and Black, and sophomore Jim Flores contributed 14, so that two players had a combined total of 34 and eight others could muster but 23 among them.

In the Palestra against Villanova Saturday, the Madison Square quintet took a 16-8 lead in the early going but after its four point surge at the intermission, was tied at 42 and Hall's overall speed was more than Princeton could Here's a football puzzler for you . . . Twice, the annual Jan. 1 Rose Bowl game was won by a team that was NOT a college team . . . Can you explain? . . . Most football fans don't know that for the 1918 and 1919 Rose Bowls, armed forces teams, instead of college teams, played, and thus, the 1918 game was won by the Marine Island Marlers and the 1919 game by Great Lakes Navy.

Everybody talks about the "Super Bowl" which matches the champions of the National and American Football conferences — but how many fans know who coined the name "Super Bowl"? . . . Most people don't know that the person who came up with the name "Super Bowl" was the young child of Lamar Hunt, president of the Kansas City Chiefs.

Of all the college football teams in America, which one do you think has played in the MOST post-season bowl games? . . . Answer is Alabama which has been in 25 . . . They have played in 6 Rose Bowls, 6 Orange Bowls, 5 Sugar Bowls, 3 Cotton Bowls, 2 Liberty Bowls, 2 Blue-bonnet Bowls and one Cater Bowl . . . Tied for second in playing in the most bowl games in history are Mississippi and Georgia Tech who have each played in 20.

Records Safer under New Foul Rule

Because of the 1972 rule change in foul shooting procedure, most of the scoring records in the Princeton basketball book are now likely to remain unaltered for years to come. Bill Bradley's various totals, generally considered to be out of reach of ordinary mortals in any case, now become about as distant as some far out galaxy.

The reason is elimination of all one-and-one until a seventh is called against a team, in which case the standard one and one procedure is invoked. This season, the first six one-shot fouls bring possession of the ball on the sidelines, rather than a trip to the free throw line. All two-shot fouls are awarded as in the past.

The change was made primarily to speed up elapsed time for the college game, although in early action it has not had that apparent effect. What it has done is to remove from all logical consideration both the foul shooting and total point marks that are currently in the book.

Bradley, for example, made 21 free throws against Cornell in 1963 and, aided by the old rule, 58 points against Wichita State in the NCAA consolation finals two years later. In his three years here, he hit on 273 free throws and 2,303 points.

Whether or not the Tigers' "1,000 Club" will gain additional members is less questionable, but there will certainly be fewer players here who go into four figures during their varsity careers. Big John Hummer, the first draft choice of the Buffalo Braves two years ago, would not have topped 1,000 under the new rule — he closed out with 1,031. Others who were over 1,000 but by relatively thin margins were Jim Brangan, 1,062; Art Island, 1,064; and Carl Belz, 1,088.

contain, however, and half a dozen free throws in the final 80 seconds widened the gap.

Both teams are short of the topflight personnel they have had in other years, and that combined with the new rule eliminating one-shot fouls in the early going cut the score far below the totals posted in years gone by. Last December, in Jadwin, for example, the Tigers won, 82 to 68.

SKATERS NOW AT .500

But For How Long? Two games into the new season, Princeton's hockey team has won one and lost one, but the Tigers' performance in those two contests and an exhibition game against the St. Nicks leaves their ability to play break-even hockey open to major question.

Their season began Saturday with a last-second 6-5 loss to Providence, which they had defeated last winter for their lone victory away from home. Only with a triumph over the Friars here could real signs of the hoped-for renaissance have been noted.

Monday saw them top St. Anselms (from Winooski Park, Vt.), 3 to 0. Last Thursday, the Nicks beat them for the second year in a row, 4-2, aided by a number of alumni, including the brothers Cook, John and Steve; John Baker, Larry Sanford and Harry Rulon-Miller.

Now the schedule calls for back-to-back games on the road against Northeastern and Boston University this Friday and Saturday, and a good New Hampshire team here on Friday, the 15th. The latter two seem out of reach. Northeastern may not be.

Loss Appealed. Officialing in the 6-5 game with Providence was so bad that the outcome has been appealed to the Eastern College Athletic Conference. During the course of the afternoon, the officials disallowed one Princeton goal on an incorrect decision that the whistle had been blown for a Providence high stick just before the puck went into the cage; gave the Tigers credit for another, after the clock had correctly been stopped for a penalty call; charged a Providence player with tripping while time was out, another incorrect procedure; and let a Providence player out of the penalty box prematurely because of a mix-up on timing.

A minute after his escape from the bin — and 17 seconds before the game ended — the same player scored the winning goal before the second of consecutive penalties he had drawn was actually over. The mistake occurred partially because the officials erred in their arithmetic, and partially because the penalty timekeeper was in a radio booth above the ice and not at rink-side, as the rules require.

Princeton led very briefly in the second period, taking a 2-1 lead on sophomore Mike Bascom's goal with 7:30 to go. The visitors drew even a little over a minute later while defenseman Al Steuver was doing time for charging and Princeton was never on top again. Half the victors' goals were scored while the home team was a man short.

Sophomore center Mark Stuckey began his varsity career by accomplishing the hat trick, gaining four points on the day when he added an assist. His speed and overall awareness of how hockey should be played have made him an early favorite of Baker Rink crowds.

First Shutout. Playing St. Anselms, a Division II team, Monday night, the Tigers came up with their first shut-out victory in four years and the first Baker Rink whitewash job in five. Junior Phil Robinson stopped all 22 shots taken at him — only three in the final period as his team

Cronin, Tight End, Is 1973 Football Captain

William G. Cronin, 20-year old junior from Port Washington, N. Y., has been elected captain of Princeton University's 1973 football team. He succeeds Michael Kincaid, a defensive end.

A hard-hitting offensive guard both as a freshman and as a sophomore, Cronin was moved this fall to tight end, a spot depleted by graduation. His blocking techniques proved valuable at the new spot and he added six pass receptions good for 67 yards. The 6-3, 235-pound Long Island resident was sidelined midway through the Brown game with a sprained ankle and missed both the Harvard and Yale contests. He returned to the starting lineup in the Tigers' finale against Cornell.

Cronin was graduated from Paul D. Schreiber High School in Port Washington where he earned letters in football, basketball and lacrosse. He won the job as goaltender on the Tiger lacrosse team last spring as a sophomore and appears set in that position for the next two seasons.

Coach Jake McCandless, in commenting on Cronin's election, said: "Bill made a major contribution to our football program this fall when he switched so successfully from guard to tight end. His development earned the respect of his coaches and his team mates, as evidenced in his selection as captain."

The first tri-captaincy for a Princeton team was announced this week for the Class of '76 in football. Named honorary captains at the end of the season were wide receiver Neil Chamberlin of Westfield, defensive back Thomas Palmer of Al-

Defensesman Ogden Hunne-well got the Tigers' first goal at 5:06 of the opening period, Stuckey adding his fourth of the young season later in the same round and Bascom keeping the sophomores' hand hot with the final tally early in the third. first game, 31-0, from Rutgers and its last, 30-0, from Yale. In between, it suffered a four-game losing streak: to Navy, 10-7; Penn, 26-6; Columbia, 20-12; and Harvard, 13-10. An early estimate of its personnel indicates that it will add depth to the varsity next fall but few players of above-average ability.

STATISTICS DON'T LIE

Tiger Offense Was Weak. Final figures for the 1972 Ivy League football season show why the Tigers finished in a sixth-place tie with Columbia. They were last in both total offense and scoring, and the highest ranking any individual achieved was the fifth place in punting by sophomore Bruce Hennebush.

The Tigers gained an average of 240 yards in their seven Ivy games—37 yards less on the average than Columbia. To measure the disparity between the Orange and Black and the teams at the top, Yale was first with 371 yards and Dartmouth second with 366.

In scoring, the Tigers were also last, posting 12.4 points per game on the board. Yale again was first, with a figure more than two and a half times better than Princeton. The Blue dented the opposition for 32.6 points a game; Dartmouth was again runner-up with 31.3.

In individual total offense, the highest Princetonian was quarterback Fred Dalzell, whose total of 457 yards placed him 14th. Mark Allen, Cornell's junior quarterback, led the pack with 1213 to 1169 for Steve Stetson of Dartmouth.

Brown Sophomore Leads. Dalzell was sixth in passing, based on number of completions, with 39—less than half the number achieved by Brown sophomore Pete Beatrice, who had 81 to lead all Ivy quarterbacks. In rushing, sophomores Judson Wagnerseller and Bruce Harding were, respectively, eighth and 15th with totals of 350 and 230 yards.

The leader in this category was Yale's pro prospect, Dick Jauron, with 822. He was well ahead of the runner up Rich Klupchak of Dartmouth.

Bill Skinner, one of Princeton's wide receivers, was seventh in pass receiving with 18. Kerry Brown of the Tigers was tenth with 15. Brown's Chip Regine set an Ivy record with 45.

The scoring story individual ly matched the team effort. Wagnerseller's four touchdowns tied him for 15th and last place among those ranked. Hennebush, who averaged 33.6 yards kicking in his first year on the varsity, was fifth in this department.

Defense Was Better. Defensively, Princeton was markedly better in the final statistics, but even they showed that the Orange and Black stood to lose any game it played by five points. It yielded 17.1 points per contest, in contrast to the 12.4 it managed to extract from the opposition.

Columbia edged out the Tigers in scoring defense, holding the opposition to 16.9 points. Both teams in this respect benefitted from playing each other when they engaged in the first scoreless tie between them in 40 years.

Princeton was also second in team defense, allowing 288 yards per game to the 280 which placed Yale first. In compiling a season's record of 2-4-1, the Tigers' basic problem was that they rarely put their best efforts together. With the exception of the 31-10 defeat of last place Brown, the only notable performance was the 10-7 triumph over Harvard.

SEASON STARTS FRIDAY For PHS Quarter. For the third year in a row, the Princeton High School basketball team will open its season Friday against Brick Township and this time followers of the Little Tigers hope the results will be different.

Brick won last year, 66-61, and the first meeting two years ago, 48-37. The contest, like all PHS home games this season will start at 3-45.

PHS coach Marvin Trotman reported that he knew nothing about the visiting shore quarter. He pointed out that last year, playing without Tony Bailey, Princeton High leading scorer, the margin of defeat was only five points.

This year's PHS team, he promised would be different from last year's. "We'll be playing a different brand of ball, and the players have a different frame of mind," he said.

Trotman declined to name a starting five ahead of time, saying anyone on the squad could start. "I'm still doing a lot of experimenting," he said. The team will have scrimmaged to play against East Brunswick and Princeton Day School.

when he made the remark. Three who will almost certainly start, however, are Leon Robinson, Tony Bailey, co-captains of the team, and Bobby King. The two other starters are likely to come from among Larry Miller, Gil Spencer, Dan Black, Mark Yates and Craig Robinson.

Offense No Problem. Off two scrimmages against Trenton High and Allentown, Trotman was able to report that the offense was no problem. "We can put the ball in the basket, no question about that."

Not so with the defense. "We need more work, especially against the press. I think it will come around. Hopefully it will come by Friday," Trotman added with a smile.

In an opening scrimmage against Allentown, the Little Tigers ran over the smaller-school squad, which Trotman described as "fairly weak." "It was a good tune-up for us," he said.

Against Trenton, even though PHS came out on the short end, Trotman commented that "it was a good scrimmage for us. We saw a good opening press, as good as any we'll ever come up against in the regular season," he said.

Trotman reported his squad played Trenton even for three periods before the Turnovers, one of the top teams in the state last year, took command.

Trotman cited Robinson for his tremendous play at center and under boards. He also singled out Larry Miller and Bailey "who played his usual fine game."

NEW MANAGER FOR GYM

Volz to Run Dillon, R. Jack Volz, a member of Princeton University's athletic coaching staff since 1945, will assume additional administrative duties within the Department of Athletics and Physical Education, effective January 1, it was announced this week by Royce N. Flippin Jr., Athletic Director Designate.

The 58-year-old Volz will take over the operational management of the Herbert L. Well Dillon Gym facility, a building which houses much of the University's physical education, instrumental recreational and community programs and whose traffic has increased considerably since the introduction of coeducation in 1969-70. In addition to this management responsibility, Volz's expanded duties will continue to include the direction of Princeton's extensive program in intramural athletics, a task he has handled with much dedication for the last seven years.

In order to devote full energies to his new post, Volz will step down as coach of varsity soccer, a position he assumed in 1967 on the retirement of James J. Reed. During his tenure as coach Volz's teams won 30, lost 33 and tied 6 games.

A graduate of Trenton State College in 1931, he joined Princeton's ranks in 1945 as an instructor in physical education as well as an assistant coach of baseball, freshman coach in soccer and freshman coach in wrestling. He relinquished his wrestling duties when

The 1973 Volkswagen is still $1999*.

A bargain is a bargain.

While you can see the new 1973 Beetle is still at a nice low price, you really can't begin to see the value until you know what you're getting for your money.

A warranty, for instance, that's twice what you get with any other small car: 24 months or 24,000 miles.

But then, we wouldn't be offering it if it weren't for our incredibly finicky factory inspection: over 1100 inspectors poring over more than 5,000 parts. (It sounds compulsive, but it's the best way to reach perfection.)

Consider also our legendary resale value. When you compare it with other cars after three years, it makes our $1999* sound absolutely amazing.

Everything adding up to one important point: there's a big difference between being cheap, and being a bargain.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen.

POS CAPTAIN: Mark Ellsworth, captain of the Princeton Day School basketball team, will lead the Panthers into their opening game this Friday against Moorestown. Ellsworth, who averaged 23.6 points a game last winter is expected to top the 1,000 point mark before this season ends.

From then on the schedule should get tougher. Included in this year's 20-game schedule are three new opponents: Lawrenceville, winner of the prep class "A" title last year; Peddie, an "A" tourney semifinalist; and Morristown-Beard, runner-up in the prep "B" tournament.

Three Starters Return. The optimistic Panther coach has had three weeks to size up his material. Three starters return from last year's varsity, and Taback will build on that nucleus from several who saw a lot of varsity action and some new younger talent.

Captain Mark Ellsworth will begin the season with a two-year career total of 720 points, and if he comes even close to last year's 23.6 point average, he'll pass 1,000 points before the year is out. A first team all-prep forward, the 6'1" Ellsworth was also good for 12 rebounds a game.

Two juniors from last year's team are assured of starting roles. Up front with Ellsworth is Ron Webster, 6'3", whose averages of 14 points and 12 rebounds a game should improve, says Coach Taback with increased confidence and strength.

Guard Evan Bash, 5'11", is a cool ball handler who came on strong to manage a 14-point average over the last six games in 1972.

The other starting guard position is up for grabs between four boys. Senior Dave Wagenseil, who started in several games last year, is "strong and confident", but he is recuperating from a knee injury suffered in football.

Keith Thomas, a 6-foot sophomore with varsity experience, is quick and shows great defensive promise. Smallest of the guard candidates is 5'9" Fran Treves. Tallest is Frank Konstantynowicz, a 6'1" freshman from St. Hedwig's grammar school in Trenton who Taback says "has exceptional poise for a freshman."

Taback plays a three forward game, and has four candidates for the third starting post up front, too. Junior Tom Dairymple, 6'5" and 180 pounds, brings new strength to back up his already good close range shot. Another junior, Dave Straut, is a great rebounder and solid defensive player. Third junior forward he became head coach of soccer. Volz also has served as an official in soccer, basketball and wrestling.

In making the announcement, Flippin explained that "due to the tremendous increases in the use of Dillon Gymnasium, it has become an utmost necessity to place the building maintenance and plant operation under the management of a single individual who can coordinate its usage and direct the overall operations to maximum efficiency. We feel that Jack Volz will do a fine job in this capacity."

SIGHTS SET HIGH
For PDS Basketball Team. If Coach Alan Taback has his way and can work his magic, a second year in a row Princeton Day School's basketball team will:

One: better last year's 14-6 record, its best ever, and its first winning season;

Two: win the New Jersey Class "B" prep tournament after having qualified for the first time only last year.

Three: win the New Hope Christmas Tournament.

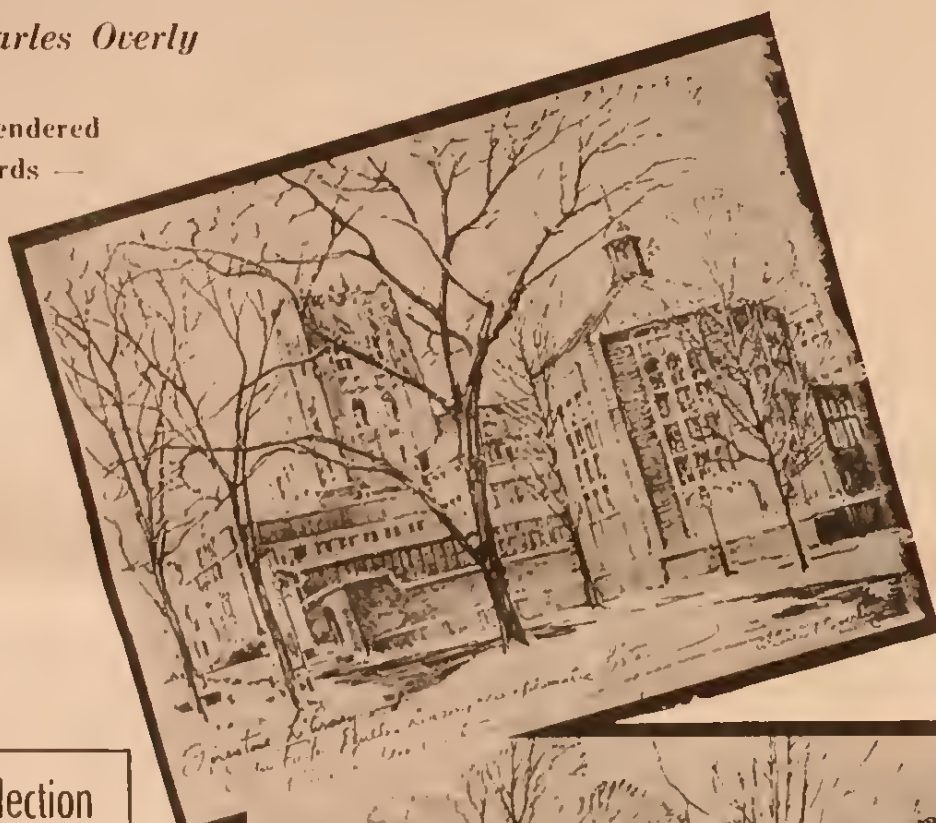

Coach Taback, who has a history of turning losers into winners in his first year, likes predictions like these. Last year he predicted the winning season and the trip to the state championships. His 1972-73 predictions are based on his belief that "we're stronger than last year... we have more scoring balance, we are better defensively, we are better all around."

PDS opens its season Friday night in its new gymnasium against Moorestown Friends.

is Jed Dowe, a hard-working, smart six-footer.
Taback has two freshman candidates for the forward spot as well. Bill Martin, 6' and 190, is strong, jumps well, and is another defensive standout, and Nick Brady, a slighter six-footer, who is an excellent shooter with good knowledge of the game.
That's the stuff on which Taback predictions are made: he only has to win 15 out of 20 to make good on the first one.

OPENER HERE FRIDAY
For Hun Basketball Team. Hustle carried baseball's Pete Rose to a $100,000 plus salary with the Cincinnati Reds; Dave Leete, Hun School basketball coach, is relying on hustle to carry the Red and Black to a fine season in the Penn-Jersey League.

Hun will open a 22-game campaign this Friday afternoon at 4:30 when it plays host to Blair. On Wednesday, Hun will be at Delbarton.

"We're not very big, but I have a scrappy bunch of players that can hustle. We're basing the whole season on hustle," said Leete.

Leete pointed out that last year Hun got off to a poor 2-10 start. "Then the kids began to hustle. They played well and we won the last nine out of ten games." Hun finished its regular season with an even 11-11 record and then lost to Germantown Friends in the first game of the Penn-Jersey League playoffs.

"We'll look for the loose ball, try to get possession any way we can. If we can put it in the basket, we'll have something going," Leete said. After a first scrimmage against Hightstown last week, Leete reported that he was optimistic.

tic-based again on the hustle shown by his squad.
By opening game, Hun will have engaged in further scrimmages with Wardlaw, Montgomery High School and Hope well Valley.

Six Lettermen Back. Leete welcomes back six returning lettermen. He has lost only Jones and John Hill from the starting five. Three who will start again this year are Bill Hollowell, a 6-3 junior forward, who averaged 14 points a game last year; John Loughlin, a 5-9 forward and senior, and sophomore Tony Troni, who averaged seven points a game as a freshman. Hollowell and Loughlin are co-captains of the squad.

Joining them as starters in the opener with Blair will be sophomore Brian Logue, 5-8 guard, and Brent Bystrycki, a 5-11 junior forward. A sixth man in the Celtic tradition is Kevin Tylus, 6-0 senior, who led Hun in scoring last season with a 15-point average.

Up from the reserves are Scott Johnson, 5-9 senior guard, and two from the jayvees: Dave Pone and Adolph Jablonski. Both are juniors and both guards. Tallest player on the 12-man squad is John Comly, a 6-7 junior, who played on the jayvees last fall.

In addition, Leete welcomes three transfer students to the squad. They are Jim Lynch, 6-0 senior who played last year at BMI; since moved to Massachusetts; Dave Clark, a 6-2 junior from Lawrence High School who is vying for a starting spot at center; and Phil Lamb, 6-5 junior from Montgomery High.

No Help from Schedule. Leete glanced at the 11am schedule, started to pick out the tough opponents and then gave up, saying, "They're all strong." Newcomers include Admiral Farragut and Rutgers Prep.

Also on the list are such strong contenders as Delbarton, Hamilton High School and Newark Academy.

Another new aspect for the Hun team this season will be the Penn-Jersey Jamhoree held Saturday at the Hun gym, starting at 1.15. Cooked up by Leete and George School coach Bob Geissinger, the Jamhoree is a double elimination event by quarters. The eight participating teams—Hun, Princeton Day School, Solebury, Academy of New Church, Pennington, Mitchell Prep, Perkiomen and George—will play a quarter each round. Two losses and a team is eliminated.

"It's known as the First Annual Penn-Jersey Jamhoree and we hope to keep it going," said Leete. He said the event would probably last about three hours.

PROGRESS REPORTED

On Indoor Tennis Center. Building activity is now in progress at the "Big Red Barn" on Washington Road. Since receiving approval from West Windsor authorities to resume construction on the indoor tennis center, the builders are trying to make up for lost time to complete the job. The club house has been receiving most of the attention. Lights have been installed, and the entire building will be enclosed. The next step will be the installation of the huge holding tank to take care of the septic problems, and then the court surface will be poured. The center is expected to be operational by the middle of January.

In preparation for membership and reservation activity, Doris Mapes, assistant manager, will be available by telephone daily from 10 to 4. All those who reserved time previously should contact the Center (921-0015) if they wish to hold their reservations. Others desiring brochures on costs and court reservations should write: Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, Washington Road, P. O. Box 2306, Princeton, or call Mrs. Mapes at 921-0015.

EWING OPENING Foe

For PHS Wrestlers Friday. The Princeton High School wrestling team will open a 14-meet season Friday evening at 8 at Ewing High School but the Little Tigers will not wrestle at home until January 10.

The first four meets are away, including Wednesday's match at North Hunterdon, a December 20 meeting with newcomer Hillsborough and Lawrence High School, January 4.

Tom Murray, starting his seventh year as wrestling coach, reported that the team was weak in some spots that he hadn't anticipated because of the decision of Rich Warfield, Ron Campbell, both middleweights, and heavy weight Dan Poling not to come out for the team this year.

"We have some outstanding wrestler," said Murray. "How we do on the season will depend on how well some of our younger kids come along." As an example he stated that he was depending on junior Dave Gayly to help fill the void at heavyweight. Pullney Team Captain. Andy Pullney heads a list of returning lettermen. He is captain of the team. Although Pullney has been certified to wrestle at the 98-pound level for the third consecutive year, Murray said that he will probably have him compete in the 106-pound class, "whenever the situation warrants it."

STARTING WRESTLER: Angelo Arcaro will wrestle in the 168-pound class in Princeton High School's opening meet Friday evening at 8 at Ewing High School. A junior, Arcaro will be starting his second year on the varsity.

Two more veterans are Mike Holcombe and Phil Ebersole who switched weights. Holcombe, a 123-pounder last year, will compete at 115 pounds; Ebersole has come up a weight from 115 to 123. Both are juniors.

Kelth Holcombe, a junior will wrestle again, this time at 141 pounds. "He should do real well," said Murray. Three seasoned veterans are entrenched in three of the next four weights. Bob Zinsmeister at 148, Angelo Arcaro at 168 and Wes McClain at 177. At 157, Dave Gilbert and Ken DeRemer are vying for a starting berth. Both have wrestled in occasional varsity matches before, which means PHS should be solid from 141 through 177 pounds.

For the 98-pound class, Murray reported that two freshmen, Dave Robinson and Mike Liao, showed a lot of promise. "Ninety-eight pounders," he said, "are hard to come by."

When Pullney isn't wrestling 106, the berth will be filled by Tom Severson; Chris Schneeweiss is a possible Melcalf first; Tad LaFontaine second; Bob Holzman third; Walt Gibson fourth; and Dick Hill fifth.

The Club will hold its annual meeting for the awarding of trophies and the election of new officers on January 20. Trophies will go to the following skippers: In the Sloops, Hector Poventud, first place spring season; Vagn Worm, first place, fall season.

In the Sunfish: Ed Melcalf, first place, spring; first place, fall; first place, 1972; Bob Holzman, second place spring; third place, fall; second place, 1972; Walt Gibson, third place, spring, fourth place fall; third place, 1972. Tad LaFontaine, second place, fall; John Hopfield, fourth place, spring; Dick Hill, fifth place, fall.

Last Year on the Mat? Is wrestling headed for the same fate that befell hockey at PHS this year which was dropped for lack of a coach? There is a strong possibility that this may be the last season on the mat for PHS, and for the same reason: lack of coaching.

"All I've got to me I need a jayvee and freshman and sophomore coach," said Murray. "That's not our grades that's just being practical. I've been trying to get two coaches ever since the sport started."

Murray said that if the wrestling program is ever going to get off the ground at the school, it has hovered around the .500 mark the past three years. It is essential that the kids be taught the fundamentals in grade school.

Last year, he explained, some 40 boys came out for the middle school wrestling program, but the number soon dwindled to eight for lack of coaching and any schedule. "Somebody has to work with these kids, you can't do it with just one man."

Murray said it would be a shame if PHS had to drop the sport just when other area schools such as Steinert and Hamilton have added wrestling to their sport program for the first time this year.

Dan Ringkamp, who has had no wrestling experience, has agreed to coach the jayvee team, he said, just to keep the sport alive this year. The Jayvees have a 15-match schedule.

"We do the best we can with what we have," ended Murray, who left no doubt it could be a lot better if more coaching were available.

The 1972-73 schedule: Dec. 8 Ewing, away; 13, North Hunterdon, away; 20, Hillsborough, away; 30, Lawrence Jaycee Tournament; Jan. 4, Lawrence, away; 10, Steinert; 12, Lawrenceville, away; 17, Woodrow Wilson; 19, Franklin Township, away; 25, Hopewell Valley; 27, Peddie, away.

Feb. 2, St. Thomas Aquinas; 5, Hamilton; 9, Notre Dame; 14, Hunterdon Central; 21 to March 10, NJIAA tournament.

FALL SERIES ENDS For Carnegie Lake Skippers. The Carnegie Sailing Club's 1972 racing season finished Sunday as mild weather and brisk breezes brought 15 Sunfish out for the run down to the wire in season standings.

Tad LaFontaine finished with a strong first to nail down a second place finish for the fall season. Walt Gibson finished second and John Hopfield third. The closely contested fall season final standings: Ed

PHS Captains Named Bob Zinsmeister and Dave Harwood have been elected by their teammates to serve as co-captains of next year's Princeton High School football team. Zinsmeister, a back who plays both ways, led the Little Tigers in scoring this fall with six touchdowns. His most explosive play was an 85-yard punt return for six points in the Hillsborough game.

Harwood, 6'0", 180 pounds, was a defensive outside back. By season's end, the PHS secondary was perhaps the strongest part of the team.

BIG ASSISTS FROM RCA

In Various Apollo Flights. When Apollo 17 astronauts return to earth, they will have been aided by advanced space systems developed and built at RCA laboratories here and elsewhere in New Jersey. Among them:

— A hand-held, black-and-white TV camera developed and built in Princeton, used on the first Apollo mission to provide the first live TV ever from a manned U.S. spaceship.

— Color TV cameras, also built by RCA in Princeton, were employed on Apollos 15 and 16 to transmit remarkably clear TV pictures that approached studio quality. The Apollo 17 telecasts from the moon will use the same type of camera.

Apollo 7 astronauts made television history in 1968 when they carried into space a hand-held TV camera developed by RCA in Princeton. The camera and the ground station receiving equipment, also built in Princeton, provided millions of home-viewers with live TV from space.

Less than a year later man put his first footprint on the moon. Altogether ten men have explored the lunar surface after touching down in their Lunar Modules. RCA space scientists based in Camden were responsible for developing the Lunar Module communication system that kept the astronauts exploring the moon in touch with earth and with the astronaut orbiting above in the Command Module. The task of the system is to transmit and receive signals, telemetry data, astronaut bio-medical information, tracking signals, and live TV between the moon and earth. At the same time, it links the Lunar Module to the Command Module for an exchange of voice and data.

Another part of the communication equipment is a unique "umbrella" antenna built in Moorestown. Packed in a cylinder only 10 inches in diameter and 39 inches long, and weighing only 14 pounds, it was set up to a reflector 10 feet in diameter during Apollos 12 and 14. The antenna beamed communication signals, including live TV, from the moon to earth during the missions.

Even smaller and lighter communications operate when the astronauts step out of their Lunar Module to explore the moon. Carried in their portable life support backpacks are space-age versions of the walkie-talkie radio. The technically termed Extra-Vehicular Communications System (EVCS), built by RCA in Camden, lets the astronauts talk to one another, and with Mission Control on earth.

The now famous Lunar Rover "moon buggy" that astronauts drove around the moon during Apollos 15 and 16 carried its own communications station—including the capability for full-color TV broadcasting. The vehicle is equipped with an earth-controlled color TV camera, designed and built in Princeton, plus a briefcase-size communications relay unit developed by RCA in Camden for direct, two-way contact between the moon and earth.

Without the Camden built system, dubbed LCRU for Lunar Communications Relay Unit, the all-important communications with Mission Control would be lost when the astronauts' exploration takes them out of sight of the Lunar Module.

The unique color TV camera is equipped with a system of controls that can be remotely manipulated from earth by radio. Thus, controllers at NASA's Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston can turn the camera on and off, pan it around, raise or lower it, zoom in or out on a subject and even adjust light control for the best quality picture.

The two systems combined provided home TV viewers with color television pictures of the astronauts at work. The finale of the Apollos 15 and 16 TV "shows" was the view of the Lunar Module liftoffs as the spaceships rocketed away from the moon. The same spectacular is planned for Apollo 17.

STOCK SPLIT PLANNED

By United Jersey Banks. Directors of United Jersey Banks have voted to split the company's common stock on a two-for-one basis, subject to the vote at a special stockholders meeting here on January 29.

The stock split would increase outstanding shares of the $1.5 billion state wide bank holding company to 5,310,690 from 2,655,345. In order to effect the split, stockholders of record December 27, will vote at the special meeting to increase the number of authorized shares of the company from 4 million to 10 million. It is the intention of the board, providing earnings per mil. to increase the first quarter dividend of 1973 to 26 cents per share, contingent upon the stock split. The current dividend rate, adjusted for the proposed stock split, is 25 cents fourth quarter dividend of 50 cents per share, payable January 2, to stockholders of record December 14.

Directors also approved a change in UJB's legal address to 90 Nassau Street, Princeton. It was formerly 210 Main Street, Hackensack.

UJB has 15 member banks with 80 offices throughout New Jersey; it also has two bank related subsidiaries.

Effect on Schools Gauged. "Our focus is on how to retain staff," school officials said Tuesday in describing plans for streamlining the Princeton Regional School system.

Superintendent Philip E. McPherson and Associate Superintendent L. Wesley Johnson met with the press at Stony Brook in an effort to clarify some of the tentative proposals for next fall, the 1973-74 school year. The management problem has a foothold in the following: 470 fewer pupils expected, $438,000 less revenue due from West Windsor and a drop in government subsidies.

These factors, plus program revisions, point to a 40-member reduction in staff and to changes in assignments. According to Dr. Johnson, about 50 percent of the reductions would be at the high school. The range, Dr. McPherson said, will probably include "administration, instructors, and others, including cafeteria and custodians."

"We want to alleviate some of the anxiety of an uncertain situation," Dr. Johnson said, expressing particular concern for worried teachers. "The goal is no job loss other than normal reasons relating to evaluations."

He estimates that five to ten percent of the projected 40 reduction will come about through attrition teachers retiring, leaving for other jobs or for personal reasons. Dr. McPherson did not rule out the possibility of offering incentives for early retirement.

Tenure Discussed Tenured teachers are expected to be employed "in either their present assignment or in a closely-related assignment." If a tenured teacher is dropped from the staff, the school district under New Jersey Statute is required to give him preferential treatment in terms of re-employment.

As the Middle School leaves its two-building set-up for John Witherspoon School next fall, duplicate positions will have to be re-assigned for instance, a nurse and a librarian.

Redistricting for the four elementary schools is to be discussed this month at a general meeting of the school staff during a Wednesday program. Reassignment of the elementary school teachers at John Witherspoon is a complex item on which the administration hopes to report criteria and procedures by early February.

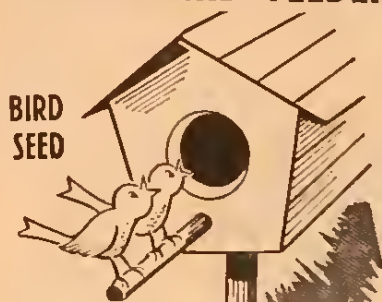

In December the library services, the elementary music program and the FLES program will be evaluated to determine whether to continue, discontinue or modify. According to Dr. McPherson, it is likely that the selective pre-kindergarten program will be dropped.

Withdrawal of West Windsor Plainsboro students will continue for two years beyond 1973-74, according to the administrators, and the Princeton school population is expected to stabilize by 1975-76, a year in which the low and medium income housing projects will "generate" about 195 children.

The 67 non-tenured teachers, who include classroom teachers, special services personnel and special-area staff (librarians, foreign language teachers, art and music teachers at elementary level) are expected to be notified of their contract status verbally by February 28 and in writing by April 15. The schools will try to balance each staff with tenured and non-tenured staff, as in the past.

CONVERSION APPROVED
 For Lahiere's Restaurant.
 The Borough Zoning Board last week approved a plan of Lahiere's Restaurant, 713 Witherspoon Street, to move 12 of its 184 seats and relocate them in a wine display and retail area.
 Attorney Bruce French for the applicant, Christen Realty Company, had argued before the board that since no new seats were being added, no more off-street parking would be required. He described it merely as an internal operation that would benefit the restaurant and the public by making the dining room less congested.

nearby parking lots were "assigned" to the restaurant.
 In another case, the board granted a height variance to Nathaniel Burt, 20 Hibben Road, to permit him to add a second floor dormer to his garage which he intends to use as a private music studio. Architect William Walker told the board that no provisions for parking would be made.

sion has been made for plumbing or heating facilities. Even with the addition of the dormer, he said, head room would be a "minimal" six feet four inches.

Two Decisions Postponed
In two other cases, the board announced that it would postpone a decision until its December 21 meeting.

One postponement was the request of the applicant, D. Don Richards, to add a recommendation to Mayor and Council for a first floor that would enable him to move his radio and television repair business from 231 Nassau Street to the first floor of his home at 70 William Street. He described his University Road Electric as "small as a men's shop and big as a woman's."

The second postponement involves Olga Hall, who is seeking a reversal of the zoning officer's order to cease selling retail at 44 Spring Street. Mrs. Hall contends that she had been selling mostly retail at the location prior to 1968 when a zoning amendment changed the area from a R-1 zone to Residential Office.

The board said it wanted more time to investigate some of the legal questions that had been raised by Mrs. Hall's lawyer, Charles L. Rendall. He requested Mr. Rendall to submit memoranda of law concerning the right of those under a prior non-conforming use and the issuance of certificates of occupancy points that had been raised in the hearing.

Mrs. Hall was granted a certificate of occupancy in 1965 to operate a beauty parlor at the Spring Street address.

BICYCLE PATHS URGED

As Beneficial to All
It is time to take the bicycle seriously, say the Friends of the Princeton Environment.

The new plan for an inter-town loop of bicycle paths as the first phase of a larger system was presented by Henry Arnold to the trustees of the Friends at their regular meeting last Thursday. Mr. Arnold's plan for the Borough was received with applause for its objectives and general conception. While some board members endorsed the loop approach, others suggested that radial or one-way street routes might be a less expensive way to start the network of paths planned for the Township as well as the Borough.

The cost of implementing such a plan is not overwhelming, the Friends think, if the benefits are commensurate. To what extent, they ask, might a properly located and designed bikeway system be expected to reduce the use of automobiles, cut the demand for parking spaces, and ease the flow of motor traffic by removing bicycle riders from congested streets?

The Friends therefore recommend that Borough and Township put aside money in their 1973 budgets for a professional analysis of the place of the bicycle in Princeton's circulation pattern. Of origin and destination studies are indispensable to highway planning, why not also to bikeway planning?

The Friends furthermore propose that a meeting of all Princeton bicyclists be held to test bikeway plans against the wants and needs of the riders themselves. In commenting on these recommendations, one trustee prophesied that the day of bicycle licensing and safety regulations is not far off.

GIFTS ON HAND

At Peace Center, UNICEF cards may be in short supply nationally, but the Peace Center has a few, as well as a good supply of UNICEF calendars and date books.

The Peace Center has gift items for Christmas giving. Funds raised continue the work of the Fund for Peace Education. On display are Conception Abbey cards and date books, novelty items, new jewelry in silver, do-it-yourself projects in glass, dime and shadow boxes, pendants and rings.

There are prints, pottery, handicrafts by Princeton artists and craftsmen, and artist-designed fold-over Christmas cards. Trudy Glusberg, Susan Bokkday, Ann Woolfall and others are represented.

Also in the Christmas theme: Konopia pecans, candles, wreaths, and Christmas tree decorations from the subcontinent of India.

The Peace Center is staffed by volunteers daily from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.

OUR 50th ANNIVERSARY YEAR

1820 AND ALL THAT GOES WITH IT

Plus the additions and advantages of the 1970's. That's the sum and substance of this sweet, small colonial farmhouse. The sparkling white clapboard exterior with black shutters ascending the old window glass, and a picket fence enclosing a pretty kitchen garden gives a hint of the interior charm. Original wide pine floor boards, exposed beams, drop downs and step ups. It's all there—as pretty as a picture and neat as a pin.
Sizewise, there's more to the house than meets the eye—two living rooms, dining room, kitchen, four bedrooms and a bath —and it is hard to say which of the rooms has the most appeal.
Perhaps it's the big country kitchen with its cherry cabinets aplenty, wooden ceiling with exposed beams and authentic dutch tiles on the wall. Or it could be the old living room, where you look through a wide beam-edged opening in the original exposed brick wall to a dropped addition with sliding glass doors which open on a brick terrace and a long view over orchard, fields and hills. Then there are the cozy bedrooms with their nooks and crannies and fresh colonial styled flowered wall paper. In any case, inside and out (two-thirds acre with nice trees and lots of bird cover) it's an inviting property at an inviting price. $55,000

Attractive Pennington road. Two bedrooms, two baths, living

Health is probably the single most important factor in how you look. A medical check-up twice a year is best for making sure you stay in good health. When you're ill, call a doctor immediately. Illness shows through your skin, your eyes, your bearing, your hair. You'll lack the freshness and energy you need to be attractive. To have the glow of health, sleep is important. Proper diet, exercise that is regular: these too contribute to a healthier you.
